Ceil Cleveland to Head Development and University Affairs

BY TOM FLANAGAN
Statesman News Editor

Ceil Cleveland has returned to Stony Brook.

Her first time here, in the mid-1970s, she was brought in to the public relations department to establish Stony Brook Magazine. But the funding was cut and she left soon afterward.

Now, she’s back, and things are a little bit different.

University President Shirley Strum Kenny announced that Ceil Cleveland has been appointed the University’s vice-president for Development and University Affairs. Dr. Cleveland, a professor of English, will be responsible for development, news and information, magazine and journal publication and creative services, media relations, special events and alumni affairs.

“We feel it was quite a coup to bring her here,” Dr. Kenny said. “There were a lot of institutions interested in having her.”

Dr. Cleveland’s resume.

She served as vice-president for Institutional Relations at Queens College in New York City since 1991. While there, she oversaw the Colden Center for the Performing Arts, Godwin-Ternbach Museum, Louis Armstrong House and Archives and the Caumsett Center for Science and Environmental Studies. She was responsible for raising $4.5 million in annual funds at a college that had previously raised less than $1 million a year.

And, in a move that attracted national media attention, she brought alumnus Jerry Seinfeld back to the Queens College campus where he was presented with an honorary degree.

Dr. Cleveland was honored by EdPress and International Business Communications awards for creating QMagazine, a publication that reaches 70,000 alumni and friends of the college.

Although most of Dr. Cleveland’s duties were administrative in nature, she did not lose touch with the students. While at Queens, she taught four credit hours a week in the business and liberal arts program.

And it was at Queens College where Dr. Cleveland established a successful working relationship with Dr. Kenny, who was president of Queens College until this past summer. “I loved working with her,” Dr. Cleveland said. “It’s wonderful working with someone who encourages you and supports you and is committed to the same cause.”

Dr. Kenny expressed similar sentiments, saying Dr. Cleveland did “outstanding work” at Queens College. “I’m looking forward to her building the image of Stony Brook,” she said.

Prior to her move to Queens College, Dr. Cleveland was founder and president of Cleveland Communications Inc., a marketing and editorial projects firm specializing in printed and visual materials for higher education institutions.

From 1977 to 1985, Dr. Cleveland was senior public affairs officer at Columbia University and editor-in-chief of Columbia University’s The Chronicle of Higher Education.

Dr. Cleveland said she’s both excited and exhilarated about being at Stony Brook and looks forward to getting to know the students. “I hope they come and see me,” she said. “Being with students reminds me of why I’m here.”

Crime Stoppers Program Unveiled

BY PAUL WRIGHT
Statesman News Writer

Last month, Stony Brook’s University Police announced the creation of a program designed specifically to protect the safety of the residents of the Stony Brook campus community. It is Crime Stoppers, a new call-in program which utilizes the eyes and ears of everyone on the USB campus to fight crime.

A kick-off ceremony was held on Thursday, January 26 to celebrate the start of this innovative program. It is the first of its kind on a university campus in the United States and one of only two in the nation.

The ceremony began with Doug Little, assistant director of University Police in charge of Public Affairs, welcoming those in attendance to the kick-off. He and several other speakers, which included USB president Dr. Shirley Strum Kenny, spoke about the Crime Stoppers program, its importance to the safety of the USB community, and the way in which the program will operate. After President Kenny spoke, she was honored for her commitment to the Crime Stoppers. At the end of the program, there was a ribbon-cutting ceremony, commemorating the union of the Suffolk County Crime Stoppers program with that of USB.

The idea of the program is simple and straightforward. If someone sees or hears a crime being committed, or has information regarding a crime, they can call in to report it. The phone number is 1-800-TIPS (in campus, it is 622-TIPS). To ensure safety, every caller is guaranteed anonymity.

After calling in, the caller will be given a code number to be used as identification. Crime Stoppers will use information from CRIME to look for more extensive coverage, including student and faculty response, Thursday in Statesman.
Monday, January 30

Tuesday, January 31

Wednesday, February 1

"Peter Van Roy and his Legacy," memorial ceramic exhibition begins today. It is scheduled to run through February 7. Art Gallery, Student Union. Gallery hours are 12:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Urban Bush Women. Main Stage, Staller Center for the Arts, 8 p.m. Tickets are $23, $20. Call the Box Office at 632-7230 for more information.

"M.F.A. Show 1995," featuring work by three graduate students who are all degree candidates in the Department of Art's Master of Fine Arts program; Art Gallery, Staller Center for the Arts. This exhibit will run through Saturday, February 25.

Fresh, C.O.C.A. film, Student Union Auditorium, 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. $2 with Stony Brook student I.D., $3 without.

The Center for Women's Concerns is holding its first general meeting at 8 p.m. in Room 223 of the Student Union. Guest speaker will be Ellaine Mason from Planned Parenthood.

Thursday, February 2

Friday, February 3

UBS's Coffee and Conversation Series featuring David Bouchier, WSIU radio commentator, Fairfield, Conn., and New York Times essayist, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m., Room 5-102, Ward Melville Social & Behavioral Sciences Building; lecture followed by discussion and refreshments. Call Deborah Hecht at 632-7056 or 491-3042 for more information.

Forrest Gump, C.O.C.A. film, Room 100, Javitz Lecture Center, 9:30 p.m. and midnight. $2 with Stony Brook I.D., $3 without.

Saturday, February 4

National Theatre of the Deaf - The Italian Straw Hat. Main Stage, Staller Center for the Arts, 8 p.m. Tickets are $23, $20. Call the Box Office at 632-7230 for more information.

Forrest Gump, C.O.C.A. film, Room 100, Javitz Lecture Center, 9:30 p.m. and midnight. $2 with Stony Brook I.D., $3 without.

Sunday, February 5

Nationwide Series: African American Read-In and Reception. Recital Hall, Staller Center for the Arts, 4-6 p.m. Call 632-6820 for more information.

MarketPro Computer Show and Sale, Indoor Sports Complex, 9:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Forrest Gump, C.O.C.A. film, Room 100, Javitz Lecture Center, 9:30 p.m. and midnight. $2 with Stony Brook I.D., $3 without.

For more information, call Tom M., or John L. at 632-6479.
Crime Stoppers Program Unveiled on Campus

CRIME, From Front Page

given to help solve crimes. If an arrest is made based on information given by the caller, then he or she will be entitled to a cash reward. The amount, which varies from a minimum of $75 to a maximum of $1000, is determined by a committee.

The caller is then given a second identification code number to identify themselves. They are then given the location where the reward can be picked up. In most cases, this will be a bank.

After arriving at the location, the caller is identified by the code number and is given the cash reward.

The program guarantees that students need not worry about revealing their identities to anyone, or taking the chance that someone else will find out about them revealing information. The program, which started on May 4 of last year in Suffolk County, has been successful in its efforts to stop crime in the area. The program has recovered over $200,000 in property in Suffolk County alone.

Assemblyman Steve Englebright, a former USB student, thinks that the Crime Stoppers program will be very important to the safety of the campus. "I think that the program is a necessary and innovative step to make sure that the safety of students, faculty, staff, and visitors on the campus is protected to the highest level possible. It involves everyone in the process of maintaining the safety on the campus. That approach is more innovative, and more realistic, in the modern world than simply depending on the police to take care of everything. The campus police are empowered ultimately by the watchful eyes of everyone on the campus and the participation of students and faculty in the process of maintaining their community's safety. It's common sense, when you think about it. That's what this program is, ultimately. It's just a formalization of what common sense would dictate. And that's partly why I'm sure it's going to work."

As for the necessity of such a program, Assemblyman Englebright believes an additional crime prevention program can be beneficial. "I think that redundancy, as long as it not intrusive upon the day-to-day activities of the campus is a good idea when it comes to public safety. If that can be accomplished without any great expenditure or cost or any intrusiveness, then it is a good idea. And this one meets those two tests."

Doug Little agreed. "We have a very safe campus. However, a program such as this is how we keep it this way.
And I'm not saying that something can't happen. I mean, something can happen anywhere, which we've seen throughout society where all of a sudden an incident occurs. But, the point is, that if we get people involved through education and awareness, that's how the quality of life is never jeopardized," he said.

President Kenny commented on the interaction that students will have with the program. "What this does is allow each of us who is in the campus community to use our eyes and ears to close a crime from happening. The various security that we have on campus do everything they can to prevent [crimes] but they can't see everything.

And that's where we come in. You've got more than 20,000 people on campus—students, faculty, staff with eyes and ears open. You can make it a safe place. I really believe that. Even the awareness that there's a program by which people can prevent a crime, can stop a crime, can report a crime, will make a difference."

If you have information
on a crime on campus, call
2-TIPS

NOW AT LEAST
LOOK LIKE
YOU'VE GOT
A 4.0 AVERAGE.

Present your College ID for:
• Free Eye Exam
  For Eyeglass Prescriptions Only.
• 25% Off a Complete Pair of Prescription Eyeglasses
• Special Discounts on Contact Lenses

Offers not valid in conjunction with any other sales, discounts or special offers. Present college ID at time of purchase or exam. Other restrictions may apply.

We offer the area's largest selection of designer frames including Ralph Lauren/Polo, Giorgio Armani and Calvin Klein at everyday prices.

Sterling Optical
Smithhaven Mall
Lake Grove 724-9055

Over 80% of the 802 Stony Brook students surveyed believe that the average USB student drinks alcohol 3 times per week or more.

In reality...

Only 13% drink that frequently.

Ol of the students surveyed nationally, 23% of them
drink that often.

You do the math.

USB has less frequent users
than the national average.

USB students on the whole
do not drink as much as you may think.

If everyone you know drinks that frequently...maybe its time to think instead of drink.

A message from
CHOICE
Choosing Healthy Options in the College Environment;
Students Against Intoxication Decisions and your Student Health Service
SQUAWK!!!! SQUAWK!!!!
DON'T JUST BE A PARROT
TALK!!!!! TALK!!!!

SPEAK YOUR MIND AT POLITY

COME TO THE SENATE MEETING INFORMATIONAL

Wednesday February 1, 1995
Bi-level
7:30PM

If you miss it....you missed it!!!
Women Die Faster From AIDS, Study Finds

St. Paul, Minn. (CPS) - Women who have AIDS die quicker than men suffering from the same disease, say researchers at the University of Minnesota. The study which is based on the medical records of 3,779 men and 768 women who were enrolled in various AIDS treatment centers across the nation indicated that women were 30 percent more likely than men to die suddenly without ever developing ailments that are commonly associated with the disease.

Since a large number of HIV patients die at home or in non-medical settings, researchers say that specific information on the ultimate cause of death is difficult to obtain.

"Some of the deaths may have been from AIDS related disease, but there may have been other causes as well, such as violence, motor vehicle deaths and drug overdoses," says Sandra Melnick, who led the study and is an epidemiologist at the University of Minnesota’s School of Public Health.

Already concluding that biological differences had no bearing on the difference in death rates between men and women with AIDS, UM researchers couldn’t find any specific reasons for the disparity. They did say, however, that the differential factors including access to doctors and medication.

Researchers say that men studied were mostly gay and white and had better access to treatment. They were more informed about the disease than the women. The women studied were usually black or Hispanic and many had a history of intravenous drug use.

Reports of AIDS cases among women have increased by 20 times since 1981, representing almost 15 percent of all U.S. AIDS cases, according to the U.S. centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Men Who Smoke Experience Impotence

Atlanta, (CPS) - Men who smoke are 50 percent more likely to suffer from impotence than non-smokers, according to a new study from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The study was based on a survey of U.S. Army veterans between the ages of 31 and 49. Of the 4,462 males surveyed, 1,162 said they never smoked, 1,292 said they were former smokers, and 2,008 said they smoked regularly.

Of the non-smokers, 2.2 percent said they were impotent while 3.7 percent of the current smokers said they suffered from impotence as well. While former smokers reported the least cases of impotence (2 percent), researchers say that the gap between the former smokers and non-smokers is statistically insignificant.

Although smokers suffer from impotency 68 percent more often than non-smokers, the difference actually ends up being 50 percent when other factors such as drug abuse, race, age, and vascular disease are taken into consideration, according to the CDCP’s Dr. David Mannino.

While Mannino said that the study does not explain why smoking leads to increased impotence, he added that earlier research has linked smoking to vascular disease, which is a common cause of impotence.

Mannino also said that the carbon monoxide from smoking can cause blood vessels to relax, which would in turn prevent an erection.

CDCP officials said that the actual rate of impotency could be even higher because of the reluctance of some participants to reveal their sexual dysfunction's.

Special Gifts...

For Your Heart's Desire!
Anatomy Study Aid Available on the Net

Denver, (CPS) - Want to brush on anatomy? Download a cadaver from the Net. Students are able to study human anatomy via the Internet, thanks to the Visible Man, a three-dimensional, computer-generated cadaver.

"This is the first time such detailed digital information about an entire human body has ever been compiled," said Donald Lindberg, M.D. "the Visible Man represents an incredibly detailed atlas of human anatomy, created from thousand of images of a human body."

Lindberg heads the National Library of Medicine, which worked on the project with researchers from the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in Denver.

In order to make the numerous images, UC Health Science officials used the body of Joseph Paul Jernigan, a 39-year-old Texas man who was executed in 1993 with a lethal injection after being convicted of killing a man during a burglary.

Jernigan's body was frozen in gelatin at nearly minus 100 degrees. The body was then cut into one-millimeter slices with a high speed rotary saw and photographed using 35 and 70 millimeter digital cameras.

"This data can be viewed in any plane and can be dissected and reassembled," said Dr. Victor Spitzer, a UC professor who worked on the project.

Download the entire body from the Internet would take up to 336 hours of computer time and 15 gigabytes of storage. Samples of the process, however can be downloaded in much less time. Also, the NLM is making tapes available to the general public.

The project, which began four years ago, was competed at a cost of $1.4 million.

NLM officials plan to offer the Visible Woman next fall. The detail will be even greater than the current male display because the 59-year-old woman being used is being sliced into about 600 pieces instead of the current 1,800.

To learn how to access the Visible Man on the Internet, contact Michael Ackerman, associate director for Specialized Information Services of the National Library of Medicine at ackerman@lhc.nlm.nih.gov or by calling (301) 496-3147.

---

Clip this Coupon and Join Statesman for only 50¢

REMEDIY YOUR MCAT ANXIETY

Does the thought of the MCAT make you ill? Don't worry, The Princeton Review has a prescription for relief.

Our MCAT course treats test-taking as a skill. We provide insightful strategies, as well as a healthy review of MCAT concepts. Charting your progress is easy with four full-length practice exams.

CLASSES ON CAMPUS BEGIN JAN. 28 & FEB. 5!

Boost your shot at med school; contact us today for details.

THE PRINCETON REVIEW

(516)271-3400
info.li@review.com

The Princeton Review is not affiliated with Princeton University or AAMC.

ACCOUNTANT

TAX RETURNS
ACCOUNTING SERVICES
FINANCIAL PLANNING
FINANCIAL ADVICE

ARTHUR S. GOLNICK
98 SYCAMORE CIRCLE
STONY BROOK, NY 11790
(516) 751-6421

QUALIFICATIONS:
CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT
INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE - 30 YEARS

MEMBER:
ASSOCIATION OF GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTANTS
AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS
NEW YORK STATE SOCIETY OF CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

Happy Chinese New Year
The Year of the Boar
1/31/95
Beginning February 1, your friendly Garber Travel consultants will be ready to serve you in a new location. We will be at Three Village Travel in the University Shopping Square on Route 25A across from the train Station. We're near Stony Books!

Come visit us in our new location and receive the same great service you've come to expect in our 3 years on the S.U.N.Y. campus!

We're Full Service
- Lowest Available Airfares • Charter Vacations
- Rail Europe • Amtrak • Cruises • Student Travel
- Group Travel • Magic Carpet® Vacations

SPECIAL DISCOUNT ON VACATION TRAVEL!

To celebrate our new location, we are offering a special discount on vacation travel. Simply bring this coupon into our new Stony Brook office and receive $25 per adult off brochure rates on any 3-night or longer air and land Magic Carpet® Vacation or $25 per adult off any 3-night or longer cruise! Reservations must be made by April 15, 1995.

Garber Travel
Three Village Travel, University Shopping Square
Route 25A, Stony Brook
751-0566
Editorial

The News You Need to Know

Ever wonder why some classes are so full that it's impossible to add them, even if you're a senior and you need it to graduate?

Ever wonder why the bookstore never seems to have all the books for all your classes?

Ever wonder why it seems that no one in administration has emotions and why they endlessly send you from window to window, forever in search for answers no one has?

Ever wonder why Infirmary Road is consistently one of the worst, most baja-like streets on campus?

How many chauffeurs does President Shirley Strum Kenny have? How many does she need?

Where on campus is sexual harassment prevalent?

If you have been wondering, so have we. When we wonder about something, we want to uncover the story. That's what we're here for.

Unfortunately, we can't. We still just don't have the manpower to get around to everything.

Yes, we have had some new people with interest of joining the staff, but not nearly enough. Furthermore, most of the new people need to be trained, and that requires time.

We're doing the best we can for the limited staff we have, but we'd prefer to bring you the big story, the whole story, the story that is important to you - the news you need to know.

Want to know more about what's going on the Health Science Center? What is a typical day for students in the Physical Therapy program? Is going to class "over there" different than it is over here?

We'd like to tell you, but we don't have the resources to cover all the stories on campus. We're all students down at the Stony Brook Statesman. We have classes like every other student. Still, we get the job done.

Why can't we entice more students to join the staff? We don't know.

Staff members get to use all of our computer equipment for class work. They have access to our copy machine, fax machine, phones, etc. (as long as the privileges aren't abused). They get to meet politicians and celebrities. They get to go various places. They have the opportunity to find out what's really going on here on campus and around the world. They get to make contacts and network for their future. They get to work on their communication skills.

Since September, our reporters have traveled to Pennsylvania and to New Hampshire, roamed the sidelines of Madison Square Garden, met Ruby Dee, Billy Baldwin and Jesse Jackson and were among the first students to meet Dr. Kenny. We're given sensitive and privileged information "off the record."

Finally, when your name is printed in The Stony Brook Statesman, 30,000 people read it.

So why don't we have a larger staff? We wonder.
Opinion

Men and Women Can Learn From the Simpson Trial

By George Biderman

Assistant District Attorney

Christopher Darden was recounting the years of abuse that O.J. Simpson committed against Nicole Brown, the woman he is on trial for murdering. Home sick for the day, I listened and was disgusted - but also I could not help thinking back on O.J.'s efforts to "control" his ex-wife. The violence, Darden said, was only one aspect of it, and while it is alleged to have been the final act of control, the people will be using other evidence of Simpson's domination to help establish motive for the murders.

The next day, defense attorney Johnnie Cochran argued, predictably, that this is not a domestic violence case, but a murder case. Surely the defense must minimize the domestic violence evidence to have even a chance of hanging the jury. And while Simpson's past history of violent behavior will be in the trial, prosecution efforts to present evidence of domination, "control" over his ex-wife, fall into much greater mystery.

A rich man buys his wife jewelry and other expensive gifts and that proves he is trying to control her? Cochran asked. Just where is the link between these "acts of love" and a motive for murder? He was, conveniently, avoiding the mention of other evidence that points towards Simpson's domination of Nicole. And therein lies not only the connection, but also an important point for all men to ponder.

Let's start with some basic facts. Over 95 percent of domestic violence incidents are committed by men against their female partners. Most domestic violence incidents occur in private, with no male frustration. There is usually an imbalance of physical strength and, unlike a supervisor or law official who would almost certainly take disciplinary or legal action, the female partner is assumed to be relatively powerless to retaliate legally, or leave the relationship. The first incident of domestic violence, left untreated or unreported, virtually always escalates into more severe battering and, in many cases, death or near-death of the victim.

It is this known pattern of escalating violence that Simpson's lawyers are trying to exploit for their own means when they claim that, after his December 1989 arrest for battering Nicole, Simpson never hit her again. Therefore, they argue, evidence of past domestic violence does not clearly establish motive for murder.

Whether or not Simpson hit Nicole again, the point to remember is that Simpson was arrested in 1989 and, while he received minimal punishment, he was publicly embarrassed - his good name and image were tarnished. That may have been enough to keep him from beating her again, but there were other acts of violence and domination perpetrated against her after Simpson's 1989 arrest.

There is also clear evidence of escalating violence leading up to the 1989 arrest. It started with Simpson smashing the windshield of Nicole's car in 1985; Nicole's diary alleges that he beat her while forcing sex on her; he threw her from a moving car at one point; and the police were apparently called to the Simpson estate numerous times before, upon seeing evidence of his violence in the 1989 attack, they were forced to arrest him under a pre-arrest policy. It may be difficult to prove that Simpson murdered Nicole and Ron Goldman, but given this evidence of repeated physical violence, it is not hard to believe he was capable of murdering her.

Physical violence, and the threat of violence, is an act of domination and part of the power struggle. The United States did not bomb the Iraqi population so heavily in 1991 and respond so forcefully to last year's "crisis" in order to just save Kuwait. Our leaders did it both times, to assert our military domination over the rest of the world - we sent a message that was unmistakably clear. Similarly, U.S. corporations did not hire Pinkertons and other goons during the labor struggles earlier this century just to protect their assets - they beat and shot striking workers to reassert authority and, yes, to put fear into their employees. My neighbor's cat beat mine up once shortly after I moved in (she cost me $230 at the vet), and they have not fought since because my cat got the message.

"Efforts to control" precede and exist contemporaneously with physical violence, the most painful manifestation of the power struggle. And it is this battle to control our partners that all people, but particularly men, must resist. A friend reports hearing a neighbor yelling at his partner, "Get out of my house" during an argument. A woman breaks up with her boyfriend and has to uplink her phone because he keeps calling, over and over, even when his answering machine picks up the call. O.J. Simpson grabs Nicole's crotch while drunk and tells a friend, "See this? I own this. This is where my children come from."

Compare this to the sexual harassment phenomenon. Suddenly, men all over the country are wondering, "If I complement her on her hair and body, am I sexually harassing her?" Perhaps one of the good things to come from this wall-to-wall coverage of the Simpson trial will be if some men recognize themselves when they hear testimony of O.J.'s mental cruelty towards Nicole. Violence in relationships is not just physical; it occurs when you demean your partner, force your partner to do things your way, ridicule his or her efforts at self-improvement, or make her dress "sexy" when you take her out.

And maybe, just maybe, some women will recognize these as early warning signs of a partner struggling to assert control over them, and rethink not just their roles, but their future, in the relationship - before the struggle for control escalates into physical violence.

George Biderman, a former Statesman editor and an organizer for Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, lives in Stony Brook.

Letter

Vehicle Registrations Must Be Validated

To all members of the University community:

Our mission as a Law Enforcement Agency is to provide a safe environment for the entire campus community. Do to the large number of vehicles on campus, one of our primary duties is the enforcement of New York State Vehicle and Traffic Laws. A few of the areas enforced include stop signs, crosswalks, speeding, DWI, motor vehicle registration and inspection. Recently, we have noticed a significant number of vehicles in parking lots with expired registration and inspection stickers.

Motorists, it is your responsibility to insure that your vehicle is properly registered and inspected. We patrol parking lots not only to discourage vandalism and theft, but also to insure that all vehicles comply with New York State Vehicle and Traffic Laws. Any registration or inspection which is found to be expired is subject to a summons. It is important for you to realize that fines are determined by the New York State Court System, not the University. Remember, driving is a privilege, not a right. Ignorance is not an excuse. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call our headquarters at 632-3333 or ask any member of the uniformed patrol staff. We will be happy to answer any questions you may have, and please - Remember: "THIS COMMUNITY BELONGS TO ALL Of US!"

Sincerely,

University Police Patrol Division

Letters and opinions can be delivered or mailed to:

Statesman
Room 075, Stony Brook Union
Stony Brook, NY 11790

Submissions can also be e-mailed to:
statesmn@ic.sunysb.edu

All submissions must include the author's name, address and phone number. Anonymous letters will not be printed.

Statesman reserves the right to edit the content of letters and submissions.

Views expressed in the letters and opinions section are those of the author(s) and not necessarily those of Statesman, its editorial board, staff or advertisers.

Campus Notices

Are you assertive, enthusiastic, well spoken, and need to make lots of money? The Stony Brook Telefund Program is looking for a select group of students to work as phone representatives for the University. We offer: a salary of $6/hr, with opportunity to make up to $7.50/hr a paid training schedule a flexible work schedule: Sunday-Thursday 6pm-10pm and on Sunday afternoons 2-5pm. Students must schedule three calling sessions per week. The chance to build resume experience.

Interested? For further details call the Telefund program at 632-6507.

STUDENT ASSISTANTS NEEDED TO WORK ON COMMENCEMENT DAY - MAY 14. Spring housing move-out deadline will be extended for successful applicants. Apply Conferences and Special Events Office, 440 Administration Building. Applications will be accepted until 60 commencement aides are hired. No phone calls, please.

© The Stony Brook Statesman Monday, January 30, 1995
Ruby Dee Performs in the Staller Center in Recognition of Black History Month

BY RICHARD VERGARA
Special to the Statesman

Ruby Dee, an acclaimed actress, writer, and speaker, appeared at Stony Brook’s Staller Center for the Arts. Thursday’s special occasion coincided with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.’s birthday (January 15), and the celebration of Black History Month.

For those of you who are unfamiliar with Dee, here are just a few of her milestones: an Emmy for her role in the made for television movie, Decoration Day; an Obie award for her stage performance in Athol Fugard’s “Boozone” and Lena”; received critical acclaim for her performance in Spike Lee’s “Do The Right Thing” and “Jungle Fever”; inducted into the Theater Hall of Fame in 1989; and into the NAACP Image Award Hall of Fame.

The topic for Thursday’s event was the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. When Stony Brook President, Dr. Shirley Strum Kenny addressed the audience, she said, “The past is gone, don’t relive it. Our work is here, let’s do it. Our world is wrong, let’s fix it. If fate is asleep, let’s wake it. The day is ours, let’s take it!”

After her performance, Dee spoke about Dr. King and what she would ask him if given the opportunity. “I would like him to tell us the way out of the economic dilemma that not only this country, but the world has, and how can we fit people into the new equations,” she said.

Dee also left a message to today’s youth saying, “Don’t be distracted by the noise, the brutality. Continue the spiritual revolution that must happen before everything else falls into place.”

Enough said. All proceeds of the event were donated to the Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship fund.

The Legacy of Peter Van Roy Appears at Stony Brook Union Art Gallery

BY VICTORIA PARODER and RICHARD VERGARA
Special to Statesman

Last Saturday, friends, students, and admirers gathered at the Stony Brook Union Art Gallery to pay tribute to the late Peter Van Roy and his sculptures.

There were more than 50 ceramic sculptures by Van Roy in the Union Art Gallery. One of the more popular pieces was a “Tall Vase” from 1990 on loan from Joanna Van Roy. This particular vase stood out with its mixture of pink, beige, and light green colors, over designs of seashells.

Another work was the “Constructed Bowl” on loan from Theresa Richmond. This bowl, with its vibrant green and subtle brown colors, had a dolphin on top of its rim, connecting one side of the bowl to the other.

Two of Van Roy’s art students, Mary Moysi Agilera, a staff member at the University Hospital, and William Moloney, a member of the Union Craft Center, were awarded Peter Van Roy’s Art Award.

Van Roy was born in Great Neck, New York, on June 26, 1950 to Dutch and German parents. After graduation from Harborfield High School in Greenlawn, Van Roy attended Tufts University and the University of Massachusetts at Boston, where he studied art, languages, and French literature for three years.

His pottery training began in Paris, where he studied with forty other students, starting in 1974. In 1976, he returned to the United States, settling in Santa Monica, Calif. He continued to study pottery and started to teach.

In 1985, he returned to Long Island and studied psychology at Stony Brook. It was at this time that he became acquainted with the Union Crafts Center, directed by Marcia Weiner. He graduated with honors in 1991 and was accepted into the School of Social Welfare’s Master’s program when he was diagnosed with Kaposis’ sarcoma, a type of cancer that often occurs in people with AIDS. He joined the Board of A New Light, a non-profit organization whose goal is to provide counseling for those infected or affected by the HIV virus.

He began to speak publicly about his experiences as a gay man and continued to teach and work on his pottery. Van Roy died on March 15, 1994, but still remains alive in the hearts of the people who admired his work and his character.

“He was a great teacher and he really gave a lot to his students,” said Weiner.

Mimi Brown, a close friend of Van Roy, writes “among Peter’s many wonderful traits… were his acute perceptions about humans and his ways of communicating those perceptions… he was always seeking some deeper understanding of a person, of people, of us.”

The Peter Van Roy exhibit will be on display until February 7. The Gallery hours are 12 p.m. - 4 p.m.
Deferred Apple Computer Loan offer expires February 17, 1995. No payment of interest or principal will be required for 90 days. Students who qualify can take home any Macintosh® personal computer, printer, CD-ROM drive or other peripherals with no hassle and no complicated forms. Let’s face it, the holidays aren’t exactly conducive to saving money. In fact, they can leave you broke. But you can still buy the computer you want and not worry about payments until long after the decorations are down. The Apple Computer Loan and 90-Day Deferred Payment Plan. The solution that gives you the power every student needs. The power to be your best.*
Budget Information Session
Monday, January 30th
8:00 PM - Fireside Lounge

For ALL Line Budget Clubs and PSC
Seeking Line Budget Status
Please Call 632-6460 if you
CANNOT Attend

ALSO....

Polity is looking for
Assistant Treasurers
MUST be available on
Tuesdays and Thursdays

Rugby Information Table
Will be set up in the Union on Tuesday, January 31st from 11am - 3pm

Meeting for old and new players will be held on Wednesday, February 1st at 9pm in Room 216
in the Union

Brought to you by your Student Activity Fee
On Tour With John Finn of Love Battery

Q: How would you describe the style of your music?
A: We tend to do it sort of together by committee, we call it. Ron or Kevin come in (one of the guitarists) with maybe one riff, or maybe two riffs, or maybe almost a whole song, and we just start tearing it apart. Ron does all the lyrics and the vocals. It sort of bangs itself out with everybody. It's democratic in rearranging and stuff.

Q: How did this “committee” method of songwriting start up?
A: That's the way it happened. We started about five years ago. Ron and I started playing together and then Kevin [Whitworth] lived with me, so we started playing in my living room. The band wasn't started by one person so that's where the democracy came from.

Q: What does the name "Love Battery" mean?
A: That was actually done with not a lot of thought. We were together for a month and we got a show all of a sudden. When you're out drinking or something, you're constantly thinking of great band names, but when you really need something to put on the club listing, all of the sudden, your mind just goes blank. We were just banging our heads. I don't know if we were listening to the Buzzcocks at that moment. It is the name of a Buzzcocks song. It wasn't a tribute to them. It was just "Love Battery," that's two words!

Q: What is your touring schedule?
A: We haven't really toured at all this year, although for the two or three years before that, we were touring constantly. Right now, we're doing a west coast tour for the E.P. until February when the record comes out. Then we'll circle the globe repeatedly. We've been to Europe once before, and Japan.

Q: How was it touring in Europe and Japan?
A: Europe was a couple of years ago, after our second record on Sub Pop [Records] came out. And Japan was last year, and that was just for a week. A couple of shows in Tokyo and Osaka.

Q: What's the difference between your major label work, and the independent label Sub Pop?
A: With this record, we took a lot more time with it. Sonically, obviously it's been stepped up a notch. We've used a lot of high tech studio stuff. It's not really slicker, but it has a lot more fidelity to it. We spent a lot of time mixing and really captured what we think we're sounding like, right now. Whereas for the last record, we didn't know how it was mixed... we had a difference of vision with our producer, and it's all sort of more fallen into place now. We're ready to put it out now and say, "This is our trip. This is what we sound like, this is what we want to sound like."

Q: And what will you be doing outside of the band to relax until the big February release?
A: Myself, I work as a bartender on the side. It's great flexible work for somebody who needs to leave town all the time. Bar work is very gentlemen like. You can leave for a couple of months, and come again.

Q: Where do you see the band going after February?
A: Europe was a few years ago, after our second record on Sub Pop [Records] came out. And Japan was last year, and that was just for a week. A couple of shows in Tokyo and Osaka.

Q: What's the difference between the name "Love Battery," that's two words!
A: We tend to do it sort of together by committee, we call it. Ron or Kevin come in (one of the guitarists) with maybe one riff, or maybe two riffs, or maybe almost a whole song, and we just start tearing it apart. Ron does all the lyrics and the vocals. It sort of bangs itself out with everybody. It's democratic in rearranging and stuff.

Q: How did this “committee” method of songwriting start up?
A: That's the way it happened. We started about five years ago. Ron and I started playing together and then Kevin [Whitworth] lived with me, so we started playing in my living room. The band wasn't started by one person so that's where the democracy came from.

Q: What does the name "Love Battery" mean?
A: That was actually done with not a lot of thought. We were together for a month and we got a show all of a sudden. When you're out drinking or something, you're constantly thinking of great band names, but when you really need something to put on the club listing, all of the sudden, your mind just goes blank. We were just banging our heads. I don't know if we were listening to the Buzzcocks at that moment. It is the name of a Buzzcocks song. It wasn't a tribute to them. It was just "Love Battery," that's two words!

Q: What is your touring schedule?
A: We haven't really toured at all this year, although for the two or three years before that, we were touring constantly. Right now, we're doing a west coast tour for the E.P. until February when the record comes out. Then we'll circle the globe repeatedly. We've been to Europe once before, and Japan.

Q: How was it touring in Europe and Japan?
A: Europe was a couple of years ago, after our second record on Sub Pop [Records] came out. And Japan was last year, and that was just for a week. A couple of shows in Tokyo and Osaka.

Q: What's the difference between your major label work, and the independent label Sub Pop?
A: With this record, we took a lot more time with it. Sonically, obviously it's been stepped up a notch. We've used a lot of high tech studio stuff. It's not really slicker, but it has a lot more fidelity to it. We spent a lot of time mixing and really captured what we think we're sounding like, right now. Whereas for the last record, we didn't know how it was mixed... we had a difference of vision with our producer, and it's all sort of more fallen into place now. We're ready to put it out now and say, "This is our trip. This is what we sound like, this is what we want to sound like."

Q: And what will you be doing outside of the band to relax until the big February release?
A: Myself, I work as a bartender on the side. It's great flexible work for somebody who needs to leave town all the time. Bar work is very gentlemen like. You can leave for a couple of months, and come again.

Q: Where do you see the band going after February?
A: Europe was a few years ago, after our second record on Sub Pop [Records] came out. And Japan was last year, and that was just for a week. A couple of shows in Tokyo and Osaka.

Q: What's the difference between the name "Love Battery," that's two words!
A: We tend to do it sort of together by committee, we call it. Ron or Kevin come in (one of the guitarists) with maybe one riff, or maybe two riffs, or maybe almost a whole song, and we just start tearing it apart. Ron does all the lyrics and the vocals. It sort of bangs itself out with everybody. It's democratic in rearranging and stuff.

Q: How did this “committee” method of songwriting start up?
A: That's the way it happened. We started about five years ago. Ron and I started playing together and then Kevin [Whitworth] lived with me, so we started playing in my living room. The band wasn't started by one person so that's where the democracy came from.

Q: What does the name "Love Battery" mean?
A: That was actually done with not a lot of thought. We were together for a month and we got a show all of a sudden. When you're out drinking or something, you're constantly thinking of great band names, but when you really need something to put on the club listing, all of the sudden, your mind just goes blank. We were just banging our heads. I don't know if we were listening to the Buzzcocks at that moment. It is the name of a Buzzcocks song. It wasn't a tribute to them. It was just "Love Battery," that's two words!
New York & Long Island's Top Companies are Hiring

Wednesday, Feb 1 * 9 am - 4 pm
The Long Island Marriott
101 James Doolittle Blvd., Uniondale, NY (across from Nassau Coliseum)

Tuesday, Feb. 7 * 9 am - 6 pm
The Hotel Pennsylvania
353rd Street & 7th Avenue New York, across from Penn Station

Note: Most companies listed will appear at both shows.

SAVE TIME, TRAVEL & MONEY in the job hunt by attending New York's most prestigious professional career fairs. Interview with dozens of companies which are hiring now... all in one day! Hundreds of exciting positions in SALES, MANAGEMENT, RETAIL, Financial Services & Brokerage, Customer Service, and more. Business attire required and bring many copies of your resume. Only Five Dollars Admission. Limited company space available call (212) 505-1780.

Party School Poll: Who's Number One When Class is Done?

By Marco Bugcaglia

(CPS) - Rich Satar says he had a decent social life in college. "I went out to the bars on the weekends and drank as much as the next guy," he says. "It was nothing special, but it was alright."

But according to the editors of "Inside Edge" magazine, Satur, a University of Chicago grad, attended the "all-time worst place to go to school, ever."

While University of Chicago may be a good place to bump into Nobel Prize laureates, it isn't exactly party central, say "Inside Edge" editors.

In the magazine's second annual Fun College survey, 101 colleges are rated from 0 to 100 for each of the following categories: Bar and club scene, party scene, attractiveness of students, ease of graduation, ease of classes, college location, college facilities, sports involvement, happiness quotient and bragging factor.

Georgetown University tops the survey, scoring 83.9 out of 100 possible points. While acknowledging that the school is difficult to get into, the magazine describes the school as "fluffy," leaving students plenty of time to soak in the Washington social scene. "Number one despite a football team that your high school could beat," states the survey. "These guys must know how to kick back."

Although Penn State's football team was denied the national title, the university has earned the nominal distinction of being named the number one drinking school in the nation.

"Without a doubt, it's the top drinking school in the country. Students at this school do not buy beer by the pint unless they are attempting to cleanse their palate before they really start drinking," the survey says. "In fact, our friends at Penn State confess that they buy beer by the case in the bars."

Vicki Fong, a Penn State spokesperson, said school officials really aren't overly concerned with the ranking. "It's hardly a scientific survey," she says. "We'll take it all with a grain of salt.

Editors at the "Inside Edge" say they interviewed students from 101 schools of the NCAA's major conferences.

Rounding out the top ten after Georgetown University were:

- Pennsylvania State University - "There's nothing like coming out of a biology class and sun bathing before dinner."
- The University of California at Santa Barbara - "A nice place to work on your tan without the bother of all those distracting college-level classes."
- Southern Methodist University - "But if only we had the libraries at SMU."
- Northwestern University - "It was nothing special, but it wasn't bad.
- University of California at Los Angeles - "Oh, that L.A. club scene."
- Penn State University - "If only we were located in the middle of Pennsylvania, where there is no ocean, no culture, and no sunshine. Oh well, no school is perfect."
- Tulane University - "The student body participates in year-long Mardi Gras and Jazz Fest parties complete with music, dancing, spicy food, exotic drinks and celebrations that last all night long."
- Ohio State University - "OSU."

See PARTY, Page 16

Planned Parenthood gives you choices.

- Birth Control
- GYN Care
- Pregnancy Testing & Counseling
- Testing & Treatment for Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Services are strictly confidential. Fees are based on your ability to pay. Seesbaida equated.

Planned Parenthood of Suffolk County, Inc.

Appointment Monday – Saturday, Evenings, too

Amagansett
Montauk Highway at Cross Highway
267-6818

Huntington
737 New York Avenue
275-7154

Patchogue
450 Plaza Way
475-2705

Riverhead
540 East Main Street
369-0230

Smithtown
70 Maple Avenue
361-7526

West Islip
180 Sunrise Highway
893-0150

The Stony Brook Statesman
Call 632-6479 for details
Positions are available!!
These days, the percentage of freshmen who smoke cigarettes rose for the sixth time in the past seven years to 12.5 percent, according to a survey conducted by the Higher Education Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles.

And if you want to catch the interest of a freshman, don't try talking politics. The majority of first year students couldn't care less, the survey finds.

According to the national survey of freshman attitudes, students who started school last fall are less involved and less interested in politics than any class in the survey's 29-year history.

Only 31.9 percent of the class of '98 said that "keeping up with political affairs," is an important goal in life—down 10 percent from the year before and about half the 1996 level.

Survey director Alexander W. Astin says the drop in political interest is surprising. "Considering that the figures from 1993, a non-election year, was 37.6 percent," says Astin, a professor of higher education at UCLA's Graduate School of Education & Information Studies, "the sharp drop observed during this recent election year is all the more remarkable."

Less than 16 percent of college freshmen said they discussed politics frequently, compared to 18.8 percent in 1993 and 24.6 percent in 1992.

Kellye McIntosh, field advisor for the United States Student Association, says that students aren't really as apathetic as the survey indicates. Instead, she says, they are uninformed.

"What I witness on campus is that students don't have enough information on issues that are of major concern to them," McIntosh says. "No one really addressed the problems that face in the last election, so it's hard to judge, but when the issues are addressed, students definitely get involved.

McIntosh helped organize "Students are Voting Everywhere," or SAVE, on campuses throughout the nation, where student registration was higher on the West Coast than in the rest of the country because of education issues that appeared on the ballot.

"Students were registering like crazy in Oregon and Washington because a lot of the issues discussed in the election will have a direct impact on their lives," she says. "Students still want to make sure they have a say in what happens."

The survey also found that the number of students describing themselves as politically "middle-of-the-road" has increased alongside their indifference. More than half, or 52.6 percent of students, called themselves "middle-of-the-road," while the number of students who called themselves either liberal (25 percent) or conservative (22.5 percent) declined.

Meanwhile, the 333,703 students at 670 U.S. two-year and four-year colleges and universities who filled out a four-page, multiple choice questionnaire also reported record amounts of stress.

Astin says that a record-high percentage of freshman reported that they frequently "felt overwhelmed by all I have to do." A total of 24.1 percent of the students said they are under a high amount of stress, compared to 23.3 percent who said the same in 1993 and 16 percent in 1985.

"Today's new students are feeling increasingly stressed," says Astin. "There are more pressures on students than ever before, and it looks like it's starting to get to them."

Subsequently, almost 10 percent of the students said they felt depressed, and more students than ever before rated their emotional health as low.

"It's a big adjustment," says Tina Lindquist, a freshman at the University of Colorado. "It sounds stupid, but just being away from home was hard enough. With classes and everything else, I can see how some people get stressed out."

Lindquist says she was able to stay upbeat and relaxed by keeping herself busy. "I didn't want to work my freshman year but then I started getting depressed because I didn't have enough money and even more depressed when I was bored, so I figured the best thing to do was to get a job."

And despite the rise of smoke-free residence halls and stricter smoking codes, more and more freshmen are lighting up these days. The percentage of freshmen who smoke cigarettes rose for the sixth time in the past seven years to 12.5 percent, up from 11.6 percent last year. This figure is nearing the all-time high of 13.3 percent, which was set in 1985.

Freshmen alcohol use is down, as an all-time low if 53.2 percent of freshmen reported drinking beer on a regular basis, down from 54.4 percent last year. Those numbers indicate a dramatic drop from 1981, when 75.2 percent of college freshmen said they regularly downed a brew or two. Those students who drink wine or hard liquor declined as well to 52.5 percent, down from 66.7 percent in 1987.

Jeff Merrill, vice president of the Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University, says that students are becoming aware of the negative situations they can find themselves in after they've been drinking. "There is nothing glamorous about being drunk," Merrill says. "It's not as though it makes you perform better in any way. It's been glorified way too much."

But Joseph Martinez, a freshman at Illinois State University, says that whether school officials like it or not, drinking will always be part of the freshman experience. "Going out an getting drunk with your friends is how most people spend their Friday and Saturday nights," he says. "It's not like you're completely sick every time you drink. If you do, you know not to drink."

See SURVEY, Page 16
a great sporting reputation which amounts to some of the best tailgating parties in the country."

- University of Southern California - "Of course you know the mascot of the school is appropriately named the Trojans. 'Nuff said!"

- Stanford University - "The place where the administration does its best to prevent any student from receiving lower than a 'C' in any course."

UCLA junior Josh Aberconye says he isn't surprised that his school ranks in the top 10. "We have parties and drink beer like everyone else," he says. "But we also have the sun out here. That can make up for a lot."

Although the sun occasionally shines in the Midwest, too, it apparently isn't enough to inspire bouts of frivolity and excess among University of Chicago Students, who finish behind Brigham Young University. Providence College and Johns Hopkins University. "I can't really understand the ranking," says UC grad Satur. "The guys who wrote it must be from Harvard."

Actually, he's right. "Inside Edge" is comprised of alumni from Harvard and a few other East Coast schools. And where do Cambridge boys rank their own school, that legendary campus of Ivy League madness? According to "Inside Edge," Harvard placed 34, buoyed by a perfect score of 100 in the bragging factor.

But according to the magazine, other students shouldn't be too concerned with Harvard's ranking. "Since you won't get in," it reads, "who cares?"

---

Students Rate Party Factor at Campuses

---

Freshman Smoke More, Drink Less, Survey Finds

SURVEY, From Page 15

that much the next time. It's a learning experience."

Other results of the survey include:

- An all time high of 28.1 percent of students indicated they had an "A" average in high school, up from 27 percent last year and 12.5 percent in 1969. Only 15 percent of the students said their average in high school was a "C". Nearly 33 percent of the students said they were "bored in class" while in high school.

- Nearly 9 percent of the freshmen surveyed said they planned on obtaining a law degree. 7 percent planned on obtaining a medical degree, up from 4.1 percent in 1969. More women (9.9 percent) than men (7.7 percent) plan on pursuing medical degrees, which is a major switch from 1966, when men outnumbered women among pre-med students by nearly four to one.

- The percent of students who expressed doubts about their ability to pay for college reached an all-time high of 18.9 percent, up from 8.4 percent in 1968.

- When it came to social topics, Freshmen's attitudes tended to lean toward the left. Support for the legalization of marijuana increased for the first straight year to 32.1 percent, up from 16.7 percent in 1989. Support for legislation to outlaw homosexuality reached an all-time low of 33.9 percent, compared to 33.2 percent in 1987.

- However freshmen tended to be right-leaning when it come to crime and punishment issues. Their support for abolishing capital punishment reached an all-time low: 20 percent, compared to 58 percent in 1971. Seventy-three percent agreed that "there is too much concern in the courts with the rights of criminals."

- With other issues, 84 percent said they want the government to take greater efforts to protect the environment; 79.9 percent want to control the sale of handguns; 70.5 percent would like to see a national health care plan; and 67.3 percent would like to raise taxes on the wealthy.

- While the percentage of freshmen who performed volunteer work in high school increased from 67.7 percent last year to 70.1 percent, those who plan to do volunteer work in college actually declined from 18.5 percent last year to 17.3 percent.

- Just more than 43 percent of freshmen said they agreed with the statement, "If two people really like each other, it's all right for them to have sex even if they've known each other for only a very short time." That was 56 percent of the men but only 32 percent of the women.

---

Statesman Classifieds

HELP WANTED

Help Wanted, Bartender with following: Neighborhood Sports Bar. Good $$. Call 473-9721

---

PART-TIME, FROM PAGE 14

---

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK

America’s #1 Spring Break Company!

Cancun, Bahamas, or Florida!

110% Lowest Price Guarantee

Organize small group-eom FREE trip plus commission! Call 1-800-622-0321

---

FOR SALE

Macintosh Computer. Complete system including printer only $599. Call Chris at 800-289-5685

---

---

---
Seawolves Beat Albany, 64-63

HOOPS, from back page

finish, perhaps a prelude to future Stony Brook NCAA action.

Coach Dickinson attributed an emotional turnaround at NYU last week. “The game (NYU) was really good for us, they were nationally ranked and we played 35 minutes. That really prepared us for today.” Rischvana Sims, who led the way with 23 points and 12 rebounds (seven offensive), explained earlier that the team’s attitude coming into the game was preparing them for today.” Erica Bascom added, “We’re coming to the end of the season and we want to finish with a bang.”

Team Notes: The ‘Wolves beat Susquehanna nationally ranked number 16 Dec. 28. Juniors Marisa Baron and Ngozi Efobi are out for the season with knee injuries. Efobi one of Stony Brook’s brightest stars, entered the season averaging 15 points and 16 rebounds before going out after just five games. “I’ll be ready for next year. Things happen, you get over it and you go on,” she said. “Right now, I’m proud of my team. We won a good game here and that’s all that matters.” Efobi will return to play an extra year. Erica Bascom, the team’s leading scorer, needs 99 points to reach 1,000 for her career. She is averaging 13 points a game.

Northwestern College of Chiropractic is now accepting applications for its next three entering classes. (April 1995, September 1995, January 1996)

General requirements at time of entry include:
• At least 2-3 years of undergraduate college in a health science or basic science degree program. (Inquire for a complete list of specific requirements.)
• A minimum G.P.A. of 3.5. (A more competitive G.P.A. is favored.)
• A personal interest in a career as a primary care physician.

Northwestern College of Chiropractic offers a rigorous four year professional education. Our focus on science, diagnosis, chiropractic methods, patient care and research provides our graduates with the tools they need to work as primary care physicians in the health care environment. NWCC is fully accredited by North Central Association of Colleges and Schools and the Council on Chiropractic Education.

Call: 1-800-888-4777 or 888-4777
Write Director of Admissions
2501 West 84th Street, Minneapolis, MN 55431

Society of Professional Journalists

General Meetings, Tuesday, 1:00pm

Room 057 of Student Union

New Members Welcome!
Statesman's Stony Brook Seawolves Sports Trivia

Congratulations to Brian McDonald, who knew that Stony Brook played against Old Westbury and Manhattanville in Madison Square Garden. The Patriots lost both of those games. This year, of course, the Seawolves creamed the WestConn Colonials, 81-63.

Brian will receive one pretzel and one soda every day for the week, compliments of Sports Complex Concessions and the Stony Brook Pretzel Service.

Join us again Thursday for another round of Statesman’s Stony Brook Seawolves Sports Trivia. And remember, YOU HAVEN’T EXPERIENCED STONY BROOK UNTIL YOU’VE EXPERIENCED A STONY BROOK PRETZEL.

---

15% Discount W/SUNY ID

Is Your Car Ready For Winter? Remember last year?!?

Brake Special

$25.00 OFF reg. price
- Inspect braking system
- Install new pads or shoes
- Replace rotors or drums
- Replace wheel bearings

Tune-Up Special

- $15.95 installed
- Replace plugs
- Replace air filter
- Replace oil filter
- Replace spark plugs
- Inspect suspension system

Oil Change Special

- $15.95 installed
- $15.95 installed
- $15.95 installed

---

Murphy’s TRIPLE CROWN PUB

"Just an Old Fashion Neighborhood Saloon"

- Coldest in Town
- Jagermeister on Tap 10°

OPEN DAILY 8AM

FREE HOT LUNCH DAILY

- TUES. NITE $2 Bud's & Jagermeister Shots
- THURS. NITE LADIES DRINK FREE NO COVER
- HAPPY HOUR 4-7
- MON NITE $1.50 BUD ICE (LT) LITE ICE
- THURS, NITE LADIES DRINK FREE NO COVER
- FRI. HOT BUFFET
- 17 DIFFERENT BOTTLE BEER
- WED. NITE LADIES DRINK FREE
- SAT. LITE BEER NITE

104 Main Street, Pt. Jefferson • 473-9721
Sports Briefs

Stadium is a Go

The Division of Physical Education and Athletics received word Saturday that its proposed $3.6 million stadium survived Gov. George Pataki’s budget axe.

“I am extremely excited about this,” said the Dean of the Division Dr. Richard Laskowski. “This means a lot to us and to the the University.”

The Division has a number of site plans in hand which it will discuss with University President Dr. Shirley Strum Kenny in the next few weeks. The plans propose a number of sites around campus and contain preliminary drawings of what the new stadium will look like.

The final design of the stadium is pending the exact location of the structure. If the building ends up near the Indoor Sports Complex, then space reserved for locker rooms in the stadium will be able to be used for other purposes. However, if the stadium is located by South P Lot, then locker room will be required.

In contrast to Seawolves Field, the new stadium will have seating for approximately 4,000, at least one built-in concessions area, and indoor bathrooms. Of course, running water will be required. The original proposal allowed for the stadium to be expandable to 16,000 seats. At this time, no other modifications are mentioned.

Currently, a date to begin construction has not been set and there is not yet a targeted date for completion.

Laskowski Apologizes to Tomlin

Dr. Laskowski released a statement publicly apologizing to men’s basketball head coach Bernard Tomlin for comments he made to a Newsday sports columnist that indicated that Tomlin’s job was in jeopardy.

In last Monday’s Newsday, sports columnist Steve Marcus wrote that Dr. Laskowski said he was not happy with the men’s basketball team’s performance and that “It must come from the top.” Other statements suggested that Laskowski was considering firing Tomlin. However, Laskowski later retracted all such statements.

“I issued a written statement to Bernard apologizing for what I had said as being very unprofessional,” Laskowski said. “I’ve told my people never to criticize a coach, a colleague or a player, publicly. I did that, and it should not have been done.”

A number of sources in the Division were surprised when they read Marcus’s column. They said that Laskowski is not likely to make such mistakes.

“I’ve worked with the press for 20 years. I can’t lay blame on Mr. Marcus. I have to take the blame myself... The most important thing for a leader to do is to recognize when he makes an error and admit it.”

Laskowski said that as far as he’s concerned, it’s a dead issue and things will be back to normal in a few days. He said that the team’s performance in games that followed his first contact with Marcus was normal, and the time the statements were published "resolved some of the criticisms.”

As for Tomlin’s job security, “Bernard will be here next year,” said Laskowski. “Definitely.”

---

1-800-COLLECT

Intramural-Recreational Sports

1-800-COLLECT PROUDLY SPONSORS INTRAMURAL SPORTS AT UNIVERSITY AT STONY BROOK

Sports:
- Basketball
- Wallyball
- Softball
- Indoor Soccer
- Beach Volleyball

Entries Due:
- January 31
- January 31
- March 21
- March 21
- March 21

Captains Mtg.:
- January 31, 5PM
- January 31, 6PM
- March 21, 5PM
- March 21, 6PM
- March 21, 7PM

Play Begins:
- February 6
- February 6
- March 27
- March 27
- March 27

Sign up at the Sports Complex/Intramural Department. For more information please call 632-7168.

---

Gibraltar Transmission

Transmissions Trouble?
(Don’t Be Fooled)

AAA5 Rte 447 • Setauket
751-6500

State Of The Art

- Analog Lift check & Fluid analysis
- Computerized Diagnostic Road Test

FREE

- State Of The Art FREE
- Computerized FREE
- Diagnostics FREE
- Analysis FREE
- ALL Repairs FREE
- FREE Towing & Diagnosis FREE
- Estimates FREE
- Upon Inspection of Vehicle FREE

WE ARE 4 WHEEL DRIVE SPECIALISTS

OFF

$50.00/$100.00

OFF

Any Major Transmission Repair for SUNY Stony Brook Students, Faculty and Staff

EXP. 5/1/95

---

The Stony Brook Student Government

The Stony Brook Student Government

The Stony Brook Student Government

The Stony Brook Student Government

The Stony Brook Student Government

The Stony Brook Student Government
THOMAS F. MASSE
Statesman Editor in Chief

Growing popularity and an added feature are what organizers pointed to as the likely reasons that attendance doubled at the Fourth Annual Girls and Women in Sports Day (GWSD).

“This is our fourth year, and so far, this is without a doubt our most successful ever,” said Sue Ryan, Stony Brook’s women’s soccer coach and one of the GWSD Committee members.

This year’s event, titled “Believe Athletics! It Works,” attracted more than 300 people. According to Ryan, two factors contributed to the rise in attendance. Now in its fourth year, the event has attracted more attention and garnered more support. Also, the addition of the Debbie Whittemore High School Leadership Award attracted more than 100 students and their families.

“The addition of the Whittemore Awards this year was terrific,” said Director of Athletics Sandy Weeden. “It really got the high school kids here.”

The day began with an All Sports Clinic for boys and girls, ages six to 12. According to Ryan, more than 100 children registered for the clinic. The children participated in basketball, volleyball, soccer, track and athletic training for two hours, and each participant received a t-shirt and a poster. The gifts were donated by the Stony Brook Sports Foundation and Excellence in Education.

The always popular workshops followed the clinic. This year, the workshops comprised the prior years’ four workshops into two.

In the first, “Who to Package College Athlete,” concentrated on preparing younger-student athletes for college and what they need to do to be more attractive candidates for admission. Panels for the workshop were Michael Chojnacki, the assistant director of Admissions; Deidre Fitzpatrick, a financial aid advisor; District Director of Athletics and Physical Education Fran Nocella; and Weeden. Ryan moderated the discussion.

Immediately following that workshop was “What’s It’s Like to be a College Athlete,” moderated by volleyball head coach Teri Tiso. The panelists were four women athletes from Stony Brook’s athletics program: Sarah Anderson, swimming; Luci Rosalia, track; Amy Coakley, soccer; and Betty Develus, volleyball. Like last year, this was the most well-received workshop.

“The [high school] student-athletes want to hear more from [the college athletes] than from us,” said Ryan. “The panelists did really well. You had to hear them. They were nervous at the start, but they settled down and did great.”

After last year’s attendance of less than 20 at the workshop, this year’s attendance of 80-plus was welcome.

The second workshop was followed by the presentation of the Debbie Whittemore High School Leadership Awards. The award recognizes female high school athletes on Long Island for their achievements and dedication to academics and athletics. Heather Groeneveld, the woman who was in the car with Debbie Whittemore when the fatal accident occurred, spoke emotionally about Whittemore and the bond she shared for about 10 minutes.

The program also explained the reason for the award. “Although Debbie is no longer with us in body, we will forever be with us in spirit and memory. In order to honor her and better her let her be forgotten, we have established [this] award. It is exactly what she would have wanted.”

The award ceremony was followed by the Stony Brook versus Albany women’s basketball game (See Story Below). During halftime, 10 women were honored for their contributions in the advancement of women in athletics.

“We don’t get any recognition,” said Weeden. “Nobody brings them all together and puts them on the back and says, ‘Thanks for being the mentors, thanks for getting this movement started.”

-USB’s Director of Women’s Athletics Sandy Weeden to the recipients of the Crown Trophy Awards

Women in Sports Day Increases in Success
Raise in Attendance Attributed to Growing Support of Event and Addition of Debbie Whittemore Leadership Award

Women’s Athletics Sandy Weeden to the recipients of the Crown Trophy Awards

Women in Sports Day Increases in Success
Raise in Attendance Attributed to Growing Support of Event and Addition of Debbie Whittemore Leadership Award