U Hospital Vice President And Director Announce Resignations

By Elizabeth Wasserman

Two top officials at University Hospital announced their intentions to resign at a meeting of the hospital's department heads Friday afternoon.

Michael Elliott, 41, vice president for Hospital Affairs and Hospital Director D. Andrew Grimes, 57, will leave their positions in the near future, University President John Marburger confirmed, although he could not say exactly when.

Elliott, who has been with the hospital since 1976, when it was no more than a 'hole in the ground,' oversaw the construction, staffing and 1980 opening of the facilities. He could not be reached for comment.

Grimes' director position was created in December to focus on the day-to-day operation of the hospital, a job that Elliott had previously been doing along with his vice presidential responsibilities. Grimes said he had 'no comment' on why he is leaving, when it will take effect, or if the two resignations were related.

Hospital spokesman Jim Khaitian said they both resigned to pursue professional opportunities in the field, since the salaries at state-run hospitals are not competitive with those at private hospitals.

Marburger said he believed the two resignations were related because Elliott and Grimes were close and also said they had worked together in the past. Marburger said Elliott had received several 'very good' job offers in the past and that although he has not been presented with their resignations yet, he believes the two are leaving for career advancement reasons.

Marvin Kuechner, dean of the Medical School, described his state upon hearing of the resignations as "dreadful." He said Elliott has done a superb job in getting the hospital started from its planning stages to the current $270 million operation. Kuechner said Grimes' resignation stemmed from the amount of responsibilities of his position, responsibilities that he had not expected not wanted after leaving his chief executive post at Middlesex General Hospital in New Brunswick, New Jersey. Kuechner said he believed Grimes saw more responsibilities bearing his way upon Elliott's departure and that it was instrumental in his decision.

When Grimes was asked if he was leaving because of these responsibilities or for career advancement reasons, he replied, "Do you believe that?" He declined to comment further on his reasons for leaving.

Marburger said of the resignations that, "To my knowledge they have nothing to do with the Grand Jury's investigation." The hospital has been the subject of an on-going state Grand Jury investigation into its finances by the special prosecutor for Nursing Homes and Hospitals, Terrence Buckley, special assistant to the attorney general for Medicaid fraud, that Elliott's name had been on one of the ten subpoenas of hospital personnel issued in late January. The subpoena for Elliott was for the books and records of the hospital's operations over the past five years and not for his personal testimony. Buckley said that so far the hospital has been cooperative.

Elliott came to the university in 1976 from a position as director of the Mount Sinai Medical Center in Milwaukee, another teaching hospital.

The Stony Brook Council, the university's governing board, voted Thursday to voice opposition to the proposed tuition increases for the 1983 summer session.

The SUNY Board of Trustees in Albany are to consider the proposed increases at a meeting on Tuesday, and according to a memo to different campus by Harry Spindler, SUNY's vice-chancellor for Finance and Business, the trustees are expected to enact them.

New York State resident students would pay $45 per credit hour for undergraduate courses, up from $36 last year, while in-state graduate students would pay $90 per credit hour, up from $71. Out of state undergraduates would be charged $88.50 per credit hour, up from $86.50, while out of state graduate students would face an increase from $215.50 to $312.50.

In anticipation of the trustees approval, Stony Brook students are being charged the increased rates, but Summer Session Director Mega Shua said the students will receive refunds if the fee hikes are not implemented.

Spindler has called the increases necessary, saying that the $8 million the tuition hikes would generate are needed, and if the increases are not approved, will have to be made up somehow. However, Todd Housman, the student member on the Stony Brook Council, said the fee hikes represented an unacceptable hardship on students, and that it was especially unfair to adopt an increase just before bills for the summer session are due.

Jim Tierney, the president of the Student Association of the State University (SABU), who was on campus campaigning for Stony Brook students to join SABU addressed the Council, arguing that the fee hikes would impact the quality of programs at SUNY schools, and that they will not benefit graduate students, and could drive them away from SUNY schools. He said that compared to SUNY's tuition rates for undergraduates, graduate programs at SUNY schools are expensive—a statement President John Marburger concurred with—and argued that the proposed fee hikes would decrease SUNY's already dropping enrollment of part-time graduate students.

Council member Leonard Eichenholts questioned whether the council's protest would be effective, especially since the council could not offer alternatives to the fee hikes.

Housman argued, however, that for them to ignore it when fees are being considered in such a late and inappropriate manner would set a bad precedent. "I think we should let them know how we feel about that," he said.

Housman also announced at the meeting that the Polity Senate had voted to allow the GSO to elect next year's representative to the council.

SUNY Board of Trustees Vice President And Michael Elliott announced his resignation as vice president for Hospital Affairs on Friday, along with Hospital Director D. Michael Grimes.

Authenticity of Hitler's Diaries Stirs Debate

London—The publication of excerpts purportedly from Adolf Hitler's diaries has set off a debate among historians who insist the papers were forged and former Hitler aides who believe it is one of history's most elaborate frauds.

The Sunday Times of London published selections from the 60 diaries in which the Nazi dictator speaks with contempt of his propaganda chief and describes commando Heinrich Himmler and of other Third Reich figures and suggests that Europe's Jews "should be exterminated" and "their attempt to exterminate the Jews led to the death of 6 million in Nazi concentration camps during World War II."

The West German magazine Stern, which originally acquired the diaries along with hundreds of other documents and unpublished book manuscripts purportedly by Hitler, is to publish excerpts on Monday. Two of Hitler's personal aides were quoted Sunday as saying the bound notebooks—said to have been found in a plane wreck by a German army officer and hidden in his attic for 35 years—are fakes, according to the Hamburg weekly Bild am Sonntag.

"The discovery of Hitler's alleged diaries is one of the many fairy-tale lies that we have known since the war," said Hitler's Luftwaffe adjutant Nicolas von Below, according to Bild am Sonntag. "We often sat until three or four at night and Hitler would then go to bed. He had no time to write." Another aide quoted by the paper, Richard Schultze-Kossens, asked, "when could Hitler have written these 60 diaries?"

The Sunday Times said the diaries had been authenticated by a team of scientists and handwriting experts. Another person who examined the material and judged it authentic was historian Hugh Trevor-Roper, "the man sent by British Prime Minister Churchill in 1946 to confirm the circumstances of the dictator's death. He told reporters Sunday that there were always the "possibilities" that the diaries were forged," but said their quantity and range means "it would have been a very difficult operation."

The Sunday Times said Stern magazine's discovery of the diaries was the culmination of an investigation by 51-year-old Hamburg journalist Gerd Heinemann. He located the former German office of a man who had been finding it in a plane. The plane is said to have taken Hitler's papers out of Berlin on April 21, 1945. 10 days before Hitler's suicide, as the Soviet army closed in on the German capital.

A 1956 diary by Gen. Hans Bauer, Hitler's personal pilot, records that when told of the crash, Hitler exclaimed: "In that plane were all my private archives, what I had intended as a testament for posterity. It is a catastrophe!"

West German historian Werner Maeier said Hitler was plagued by excessive trembling and had written the end of his life, and that his right arm was badly damaged by the bomb that nearly killed him in July 1944. "He had no arm to write. Another aide quoted by the paper, Richard Schultze-Kossens, asked, "when could Hitler have written these 60 diaries?"

Warsaw, Poland—The Communist government has announced the arrest of a key underground Solidarity strategist, the latest in a series of detentions apparently aimed at undercutting the union's call for May Day protests.

Josef Pinior, one of five fugitive Solidarity leaders who met with former union chief Lech Walesa on April 11, was taken into custody in his hometown of Wroclaw, according to a dispatch by the official Polish news agency PAP.

The report did not specify when Pinior was arrested. The announcement was made one day before Walesa was to return to his job as an electrician at the Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk, where he helped lead the August 1980 strikes that created Solidarity. The 35-year-old labor leader said the decision to give him his job back was intended in part to help authorities keep track of him and stop him from contact with the underground. However, Walesa's reappointment to the shipyard also puts him in direct contact with the 17,000 workers who are his most avid followers.

Little is known about Pinior, who was treated as a solid worker before the Dec. 13, 1981, declaration of martial law. A few days before the military crackdown, Pinior withdrew secret assets worth $900,000 from official exchange rates from the union's coffers and is believed to have spent the money in the underground campaign to restore Solidarity or to hide it.
Students to Vote on Offices, Referendums

By Nancy A. DiFrances
10:00 AM to 8:00 PM.

Four of the eight positions on the ballot will have only one candidate running for office: Beina Anderson for Polity President, Dominic Seraphin for Junior Representative, Glenn Taverna for Sophomore Representative, and Gerry Manginelii for Student Assembly.

Kevin DiFrances and David Gamberg are running for Polity president, while Jim Burton and Barry Ritholtz are slated for vice-president. There are 19 candidates running for ten judiciary positions. The candidate receiving the most votes becomes the chief justice.

While the fate of the Student referendum remains uncertain, the Student Association of the State University will have a referendum on the ballot that will read, "Do you favor raising the Student Activity Fee?" The referendum will be held tomorrow from 10:00 AM to 8:00 PM. Tomorrow's election will decide six of the eight positions on the ballot, including the Student Association of the State University and a become a member campus. David Gamberg, Polity vice-president said that 76 cents per semester was half the rate that SASU normally asks for to join the organization.

"I support the idea of Stony Brook becoming a member of the basis of the agreement we worked out. We need to establish a foot in the door," Gamberg said. He said that Stony Brook joining would strengthen SASU, while at the same time Stony Brook would get a half price membership to be raised to full price sometime in the future. SASU is an organization that fights for student rights.

All students (including graduating seniors) can vote; residents can vote in their dormitories and commuters in the Lecture Hall, Library or Union.

Election Preview

Two candidates who emphasize the importance of working with other people are vying for the post of Polity President for next year. Tomorrow's election will decide who will lead Stony Brook as a junior anthropology major who emphasizes enthusiasm and developing a positive attitude in dealing with others, against Polity Vice-President David Gamberg, who stresses getting more students involved in working to protect their rights.

Both candidates recognize the Polity Council's image as one of the priorities. Brouard said students look too negatively at Polity and at Stony Brook as a whole, "For such a large place, with such potential, there's no reason for it," Brouard said, "There are restrictions, but those restrictions are what we place on ourselves."

Gamberg said, "I see that there is a crucial time coming for students here at Stony Brook and elsewhere, with such things as the higher drinking age and a decrease in student input into the university's decision-making process all threatening student's rights. "One of my most important goals is to reestablish the confidence of students concerning Polity, to gain the respect of student, faculty, staff and administrators. The president must recognize that there must be a much greater active participation of the campus."

Brouard is a Resident's Assistant (RA) in Kelley B and has worked at Polity Hotline for the last year. He was also a new student orientation leader, and has worked on the summer Bach Aria Festival and for the Psychology Department, the Anthropology Department and the registrar. Before transferring to Stony Brook, he was a RA, a member of a Quad Council that planned activities for 12 buildings, and one of 10 male cheerleaders for basketball and football games at Buf- falo State College. "So I have lots of enthusiasm. I can go before people and make them laugh," Brouard said.

Gamberg has been a member of the Polity Council since he was a freshman. He was Freshman representative and Sophomore representative before being elected Polity vice-president. During that time, he has worked with letter writing and lobbying that groups, organizing rallies, and said yesterday he wants to con- tinue building on the skills he has developed and emphasize reaching out to the students through posters, flyers, direct mailing and greater use of the cam- pus media. He also spoke of organizing a network of student leaders, RA's, Managerial Assistants (MAs) building legislature chairman and treASurers to keep students informed about the issues affecting them.

He cited the state budget and how it affects SUNY and costs to students as a major issue, also fighting against cuts in federal student aid programs. Other issues he cited included the arming of University Police officers— which he strongly opposes— and the opening of a Saturday pub, which he said has become increasingly important as the survival of pubs in the dorm becomes questionable. He also cited protecting the dorm pubs and opening of a grocery store as projects to explore.

Gamberg also said services such as buying-power cards and special discounts available to students through Polity cannot be ignored. "The council and students have not met recently, and no decisions of any kind have been reached," he said. She added that even if she were to receive the signatures necessary for a petition, she would suggest that the referen- dum be held tomorrow from 10:00 AM to 8:00 PM. "It was just not looked into carefully enough and it's nothing that can't be cleared up at this point," she said. He suggested that council members were looking at the situation from the viewpoint of the election board or the judicary saying "There isn't enough notice." He said the referen- dum is something that the campus feels, and "I think we simply should allow the students to vote on their opinion in the matter. Very easily you can type it up and take it to a zeros machine and make copies," he added.

Taverna said that Statesman followed all Polity procedures properly. "We followed all the deadlines and legal avenues in getting the referendum on the ballot. The election board, the Polity Council and any other governing body does not have the legal right to deny the referendum's appearance on the ballot. At this time it is up to the students to decide (by vote) whether they are in favor of the referen- dum. If any Polity official believes that he can decide the fate of a referendum, then they are over- stepping their constitutional boundaries, and this is a matter we won't take lightly."

Statesman Referendum's Fate Unclear

With less than a day to go until the Polity elec- tions, controversy surrounds the Statesman referen- dum's fate on the ballot.

According to election board Co-Chairman Cyndie Folmer, the Statesman referendum will not be on the ballot.

"When I asked Robin Rabii executive Director of Polity for it (the 2900 signatures) he said it was locked in the safe," Folmer said. She said that Rabii didn't have the combination to the safe. She said that the Polity bookkeeper had the combination to the safe, but that she wasn't in that day. She also said that Statesman and the council were coming to a decision, and that a referendum may not be necessary.

Glenn Taverna, the editor-in-chief of Statesman, said he was unaware of any such decision. "The council and Statesman have not met recently, and no decisions of any kind have been reached," he said.

Lafayette, IN (CPB)—John Lawrence is a senior engineering major about to graduate near the top of one of the best engineering schools in the U.S.: Purdue. Lawrence probably wouldn't have much trouble getting an engineering job in May at or above engineers' $25,800 average starting salary. But Lawrence is going into the Navy instead, for about $4,000 a year less. "It's perfect," he said. "The money is competitive, and I know the Navy is going to take care of me. From the moment I'm sworn in in May, I'll be financially secure."

The vision of one of the nation's most eligible seniors foresaking private industry—or anything else—for the military would have been improbable in years past. This year however, the armed forces are cleaning up among college students. Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) enrollment has been creeping upward for years, but this year has sported higher and faster again. "Along with the rise in enrollments, there has been a fast rise in the number of ROTC scholarships—very fast," reported Army ROTC spokesman Wesley Williams. Indeed, the number has almost doubled since the 1979-80 school year. Some 43,000 students—18,000 more than expected—were picked up by ROTC in 1982.

"We've come of age," said Navy Recruiting Command Lt. Barton Buechner. "All of our recruiters are getting a much better reception on campus."

"You don't have the 'anti' people on campus anymore," said Kansas State ROTC Lt. Col. Don McCann. "When I go on campus [to recruit] now, I'm on equal footing with Lockheed or anybody," added Lt. Rich High, a Navy recruiter in Denver. "In fact, for sophomores and juniors, I can make promises that they can't. I can start giving a student money right away before he graduates."

"The economy is certainly a factor," said Lt. Tom Wyld of the Navy's College Recruiting Command in Washington, D.C. "I think the Navy is more and more an employer of first resort, rather than an employer of last resort."

"More people go into ROTC because of the money," added John Keith of MIT. "It's a major factor. You better believe it." "I think people come into the program, number one, because they feel very patriotic, and number two, because it's getting very expensive to go to school," observed Robert McClure, Massachusetts Institute of Technology Navy ROTC commander.

The Pentagon, in a recent survey of 6,000 ROTC cadets, found that 43 percent of the cadets listed college financial demands as a contributing factor in their enlistment. 69 percent listed patriotism as another motivating factor.

"The sheer competitive urgency of this year's job market seems to be yet another. The recruiting process has become such a rat race," Lawrence said. "You sit there in a hallway with the people you've been going to school with, competing for the same job. Then, all of a sudden, the Navy came up with the money." The Navy also promised him immediate supervisory responsibilities, something he might have to wait a long time for if he had joined industry.

"Used to be the government just wasn't a nice place to work," he added. "They didn't do nice things. They had wars, and so on. It's taking a whole new turn now."

Yet, there are those on campus who still don't agree. Army ROTC at Yale fell from five students to none this school year. Schools as diverse as Cal State-Fullerton and Fort Lewis College in Colorado formally have turned away efforts to re-establish on their campuses. Harvard administrators are reluctantly opposing efforts to start even a "Friends of ROTC Club" at the School, although Harvard students can get ROTC credits at nearby MIT.

"I'm a refugee from a fascist country, so maybe I'm more sensitive to this kind of thing," explained Vera Simone, a political science professor who helped block ROTC at Cal State-Fullerton recently. "It's my feeling that the military should not be allowed on campus. It increases their credibility. It contributes to our general acceptance of what they stand for," she said.

She said "there is an insidious effect on people just by having them around. I worry about xenophobia. I worry about student attitudes. The growth of the military must be checked. By the time they've already grown, it's difficult to do anything about it."

The number of ROTC "post institutions" has grown from 276 in 1979-80 to 303 in 1981-82 and 315 this year, said P.I. Officer Robert Wallace of Army ROTC's media office. "That's the highest number of post institutions that I've seen in 16 years," he said. Although there were more students involved in the program back in 1966, he pointed out, many schools required students to enroll in ROTC in those days. Total ROTC enrollment this year is 73,819, he added. up from 41,000 in 1972.

GSO to Fill Student Seat On Stony Brook Council

The Polity Senate voted last week to allow a graduate student to run for the student seat on the Stony Brook Council, the ten-member council which supervises the operations and affairs of the University.

According to the senate's decision, the Graduate Student Organization (GSO) will be allowed to place the name of one of their members on the GSO ballot as a candidate for the student seat, which will be vacated by Todd Houssanger, a senior, by July. Controversy over which organization should supply a person for the position arose last year when Polity placed an undergraduate candidate on the ballot even though it was not clear whether a Polity, GSO or Center for Continuing Education (CCE) student was supposed to run, according to Polity and GSO officials.

The senate agreed to a graduate student filling the seat provided that a final procedure for the future be agreed on by all groups involved by Dec. 30, 1983. The GSO has agreed that their student will step down from the position if no agreement is reached by then.

would like to see that the campus host the largest nuclear freeze rally of any campus in the country.

Burton is of the opinion that the student government should deal more directly with local student issues, such as lengthening the Library hours and gaining the students' confidence in Polity once again. As he was getting signatures to run for election, he hopes that Polity administration will get their act together and become better to serve the students.

Before being elected as Polity Secretary, Ribotitus said one of the first major projects he would like to see the government undertake would be to better Polity's relationship with the Graduate student union (GSU). Third World students, faculty, the administration, Statesman and the local community as a whole. He said that he would also press for a work-study program to help give some extracurricular activities, such as working for one of the campus medias. He also wants Polity to computerize its budgeting process so that more time can be spent on other issues.

Senior Representative: Jerry Maline, a Computer Science major, will be the only student on the ballot for senior class representative—one of the eight seats in the Polity Council that will be elected.

Maline, a resident assistant (RA) in Douglass College, has never held an office in Polity before, but he has been an active member of several university committees and is currently a member of the SUSB Senate, the university's chief governance body. He is also Douglass College's legislature chairman, the building's treasurer for a period of about a year, and was treasurer of the football club.

"I want to focus on the senior class in general. I'm going to be a representative of all the students," Maline said. He added that his main concern is improving the image of the council. He said the council needs to improve its credibility, both with the students and the administration.

Sophomore Representative: Competing for the position of Sophomore Class Representative is Dominc Sereaphin. He is currently a member of the Student-Faculty-Staff Committee and has served on various committees within the council.

He listed his main concerns as unifying the campus, especially commuter students, and gaining the confidence of the student body. He said that he would also like to see commuters get more of a turnout in the elections. "Polity's credibility is hurt a lot when people don't get out to vote," he said. "I'm going to be a representative of all the students and citizens, and try to make sure that Polity has a stronger voice in the state board."

Junior Representative: Among the many positions that will be voted on in Tuesday's election is Dominic Sereaphin. He is currently a member of the Student-Faculty-Staff Committee and has served on various committees within the council. He has been involved with various projects in Stony Brook and has sat in a number of State Board meetings. "I'm going to be a representative of all the students and citizens, and try to make sure that Polity has a stronger voice in the state board," he said. He added that he wants to see an alternative to the "bottle bill" in New York State. He also wants to see an increase in funding for the arts and the environment.

Student Assembly: Among the many positions that will be voted on in Tuesday's election is the position of Student Assembly. The Student Assembly is the largest student organization on campus and is responsible for a wide range of activities, from representing student interests to organizing events.

Soviet Diplomats to Give Lectures Here

Three Soviet diplomats, including that nation's first and second secretaries of its mission to the United Nations, along with a distinguished Harvard historian will give four public lectures on U.S.-Soviet relations this spring at Stony Brook.

Economics, politics and disarmament will be the topics of the lectures, sponsored by the Arms Control, Disarmament and Peace Studies Resource Center at Stony Brook. Lester Paldy, dean of Stony Brook's Center for Continuing Education and head of the Resource Center, said the series, called "Dialogue: U.S.A.-U.S.S.R.," is "part of the center's program to stimulate discussion and study of important world issues."

The lectures, free and open to the public, will be at 7:30 PM on the following schedule:

- May 17, "Are the Soviets Real Negotiating Partners for Disarmament?" Dr. Everett Mendelsohn, professor of history of science, Harvard; at the Old Chemistry Building. Dr. Mendelsohn has been active with the American Friends Service Committee, delivering medicine during the Vietnam war and traveling extensively in the Soviet Union.

After each lecture, Dean Paldy said, "the speaker will open the gathering to questions and general discussion."

Donors Give More Than Time

Stony Brook gave of its blood last week—about 100 gallons of it.

In fact, Stony Brook donors, in a blood drive held in the Gym last Wednesday, set a Long Island and possibly New York State record for pints collected in a single blood drive with a total of 854, according to Jay Fayder, one of the chairmen of the drive. All this was achieved despite long lines that forced some people to wait up to four hours before donating.

Fayder said last semester's Stony Brook blood drive had previously held the record for most pints collected with a total of about 600.

Attributing the long lines to an unusually large turn-out, Fayder said that the drive was extremely successful. Fayder said, "We're proud of the university."

Unreasonable Hikes

When the Stony Brook Council voted opposition to the proposed increases in summer tuition Thursday, they were making a statement that has an important impact on students and students’ rights. Maybe. And maybe they will simply be another unheard voice—after all, Polity, the Graduate Student Organization, and similar student groups statewide—plus the Students’ Association of the State University (SASU)—have all protested the proposal. And the fiscal problems that led SUNY officials to consider hitting students with yet another fee hike haven’t exactly gotten up and left. Expecting students to bear the brunt of even more SUNY’s problems is not very reasonable, and tossing fee hikes at students out of the blue like this is intolerable.

We wonder whether a new set of tuition increases for the fall will be coming in August. The outcry on this matter is completely sensible, and the SUNY trustees should heed it. But whether or not the new fees are adopted is not completely sensible, and the SUNY trustees should heed the students want to see SUNY handle its financial headaches differently, they’ll have to do something about it. Occasional votes of protest may not change anything, but a more organized effort can.

Committee Is Burned

To the Editor:
Hey Statesman, what happened to the principles of effective journalism you all know so well? In the story on the fire at the DEC building (4/6/83) at least one was seriously violated. The principle I am referring to is that you report all sides of a story. Although the piece was concerned primarily with the fire itself, running high in the article was the allegation by the anonymous caller that he was a member of the committee to restate Brett Silverstein (the committee has no formal title). Yet there was no mention of the committee’s response to that assertion. As a member of the committee, I feel at liberty to speak for it as a whole.

We feel that the odds of the fire being started by anyone on the campus are extremely remote. We are concerned primarily with the students who were working or pursuing a course of study in the DEC building (4/6/83). The DEC building was not the fire’s target. It was started as a result of the building’s flammability. The DEC building was the first building to be finished at Stony Brook. The lack of campus child care facilities and the additional expense incurred for such services presents a distinct disadvantage for some student-parents in performing to the best of their academic ability and achieving their goal of self-sufficiency.

A recent survey at City University of New York reported waiting lists as high as 100 children; however, no CUNY campus center can accommodate more than 50 children a semester. At State University of New York, only one-half of the campuses offer day care services and no center serves more than 100 students, faculty and staff. Furthermore, of approximately 219 public and nonpublic colleges and universities in New York, surveys indicate that only 54 institutions have campus child care centers.

Financial support for this legislation would be generated through a State matching fund formula. This formula would require that all involved to provide some support for the child care center. In this way we hope it is possible for young parents to gain greater access to education.

Where’s The Positive Criticism?

To the Editor:
This [letter] is in response to an article “Resonance Resonates” by Howard Breuer, Wednesday, April 20.

Many of your readers may not even be aware of the Frommer lead singer of Resonance. But did you have to condemn him as a “long-haired lead singer armed with a guitar and a repertoire of funny faces”? You failed to mention that he is also an extremely qualified and versatile musician whose funny faces only add's character to the already distinguished band.

The “raw numbers” that Resonance played shouldn’t seem to bad to all the dancing people at The End of the Bridge last Saturday. Also, you never did bother mentioning the absolutely unrivaled performance of the drummer and percussionist Mike Carey. Perhaps, you weren’t impressed. After all, he did miss a beat on one of the songs.

You had it right when you said that Resonance can’t do everything “perfectly.” If they did, they would be in Madison Square Garden.

Best of luck and wishes of success to all the multi-talented band members.

Indignant Over Loss

To the Editor:
I wish to express my sorrow and indignation upon learning that Indira Kaushal lost her suit against the [university]. In all the time I knew her, she was unfailingly good-natured and ready with helpful advice. With her sunny disposition, she seemed to me to be an excellent choice for residence hall director. I regret to see how she has been put upon by the Department of Residence Life and can only wish her the best of her endeavors.

India Association Should be Recognized

By Bhaswathan Deb Nath

There is a foreign student organization on this campus, called the India Association. But, no one seems to know where it exists, who are the persons to be contacted when a necessity arises, or what are the activities that they do.

These questions about the ailment of the India Association bother me, and may also bother others. Probably, the problem is not the lack of a cultural organization or the mission of a cultural organization in a foreign country. Any organization of the nationals of one country in another is, or should be, the spontaneous outgrowth of a primary source of information for people interested in that country, one that drives to project the image of its country through various significant activities.

So, what should we be doing? This should be determined in light of what we have been doing. So far, we have been only showing and seeing Indian (Hindu) cuisine and eating exclusively Indian cuisine on the excuse of a nominal sum involved in the organization? There are other activities that they do. So far, we have been only showing and seeing Indian (Hindu) cuisine and eating exclusively Indian cuisine on the excuse of the nominal sum involved in the organization.

Little Attention Given to Soviet Weapons

By Ray Barry

While for the past few weeks, the American media have been attacking President Ronald Reagan's proposed Strategic Defense Initiative, the Russians have been building up all the time. Russia has not only built laser-based and ground-based particle beam weapons...be capable of destroying incoming missiles, operationally, by 1986, but the Russians "should be able to neutralize 100 percent of our intelligence weapons in space," thus blinding America's eyes to any conventional attack.

For further evidence of Soviet deployment of such laser technology, The New York Times Magazine on August 3, 1986 did a cover story on the topic entitled "The New Soviet Arma Build-Up in Space." The article reported that, "a prominent space scientist warns that the Soviet Union is building satellites that can carry nuclear bombs, 'killer satellites' and other weapons, and the Kremlin has forged ahead in the military use of space."

The Soviets have also "have forgotten the treaty that they signed with the United States prohibiting deployment of nuclear weapons in space...the same treaty that the U.S. has considered so sacred to protect outer space from becoming a nuclear battleground."

As if this were not enough evidence of the Soviet threat, in January 9, 1981 that "Stalin's successors may have forgotten the treaty that they signed with the United States prohibiting deployment of nuclear weapons in space...the same treaty that the U.S. has considered so sacred to protect outer space from becoming a nuclear battleground."

Buchanan reports in his article, "According to the widely regarded Aviation Week and Space Technology, the Soviets are currently testing a 'laser beam weapon capable of putting low-orbiting U.S. satellites out of action. The Russians also have an even more "dastardly" particle beam device in the "pre-project stage."...With one land site operational, the Soviets have several others under construction, and are "interested in the potential for carrying a missile into space." In explaining the implications of such a development, Maj. Gen. George Keegan, former chief of Air Force Intelligence, is quoted as saying, "It means that before 1985, the Soviets should be in a reasonable posture to launch a first strike with impunity...to deliver an entire, complete, and particle beam defense, "impunity" as fair word to use."

The article goes on to say, again quoting Gen. Keegan, "Not only should Soviet laser and ground-based particle beam weapons...be capable of destroying incoming missiles, operationally, by 1986, but the

The thirty-year-old Manginelli has returned to Stony Brook as a part-time graduate student after being politically active in state and county government for a while. He was elected as Polity president three times from 1974-77 and then left school, worked for Harry Chapin's Long Island Cares group, and worked in California politician Alan Cranston's campaign for President, among other endeavors.

Over 15 percent of Stony Brook's student body is comprised of returning students, (from the 25 and over age group.) Like Manginelli, he feels that the student body and Polity could benefit from his experience and knowledge of such SUNY-wide issues as the mandatory health fee and parking fees that the Student Assembly is currently battling.

There is no candidate for the other Student Assembly seat.

Get your career off to a flying start while you're still in college.

This is a great opportunity for men who want to be leaders and have the drive to earn the respect and self-confidence of a Marine Corps Officer. You can get started on a great career with us while you're still in college and earn up to $100 a month in the Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class (PLC). In PLC aviation we can guarantee flight school and civilian flying lessons during your senior year. And in PLC law we can guarantee summer employment in the legal field while you're gaining your advanced degree in law. There are no interruptions of classes, no on-campus drills or uniforms during the school year. Initial training can be done in one of two ways. Freshmen and sophomores train in two six-week summer sessions and juniors have one ten-week session. If you're entering college or are already on your way to a degree, check out the Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class. Make an appointment with your Marine Corps Officer Selection Officer through your college placement center.

Tougher "Independent" Requirements Proposed

A student is considered "independent" for financial aid purposes if the student doesn't live at home or has parents' home more than six weeks a year, isn't on the parents' income tax returns as a dependent, and hasn't gotten more than $750 from them.

The government said in the Federal Register that it will soon propose making a student to be considered independent.

Independent students generally have an easier time qualifying for more kinds of aid that depend on financial aid purposes if the student doesn't return as a dependent, and hasn't gotten more than $750 from them.

Congress to Debate over Student Aid

The Senate, in the first weeks of April, will start serious work on the federal higher education budget for fiscal 1985, which goes from Oct. 1, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1984.

The House has already approved a resolution to increase funding for Pell Grants, State Student Incentive Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants & College Work-Study funds up $3.5 billion, to $4.2 billion.

Observers expect the Senate will approve smaller increases for student aid than the House did.

College Charged with Sex Discrimination

In a federal complaint filed in late March, Tammy Leavy claimed Driscoll denied her the team student manager scholarship she deserved because of her sex.

Leavy said Driscoll told her she was "a distraction to the players" on road trips and that "girls shouldn't clean guys' jockstraps."

Driscoll is also charged with trying to persuade a woman to drop sexual assault charges against one of his players.

The coach, in a press conference, suggested Leavy was just trying to take advantage of the publicity of that case.

Copywriting Company to Fight Copyright Laws

Paul Orfalea of Kinko's Graphics, which has quick-print shops on 170 campuses, is organizing a campaign against the Association of American Publishers (AAP).

The AAP sued New York University (NYU) and 10 NYU profs. for allegedly having students copy texts instead of buying them, a violation of new copyright laws.

Orfalea is first trying to meet with faculty groups to help him.

He said copying texts is logical because the average student's text costs have hit $300 to $400 a term.

Mets Lose Two

Atlanta—Rafael Ramirez squeezed home the winning run with a bunt single in the seventh inning, and the Atlanta Braves beat the New York Mets 5-3 to complete a sweep of their doubleheader yesterday.

Bob Horner's three-run homer in the opener powered the Braves to a 6-3 victory, and he added a solo shot in the eighth inning of the nightcap for his fifth homer of the year.

Ramirez' bunt toward third scored pinch-runner Brett Butler with the winning run in the nightcap. Butler was running for Bruce Benedict, who singled to open the inning off Dale Murphy, 1-1.

Steve Bedrosian's grounder went through second baseman Brian Giles allowing Butler to race to third. Bedrosian, 2-1, got the victory. Dale Murphy had a two-run homer, his third, in the third inning.

Horner's three-run homer broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth inning of the opener. It came off Craig Swan, 1-1, after singles by Claudell Washington and Murphy. Rick Camp, 3-0, allowed six hits before Gene Garber got the final out and his third save of the season.

76ers Beat Knicks

Philadelphia—Moses Malone, wearing elastic supports on his injured knees, scored 36 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the New York Knicks 112-102 yesterday in the first game of their National Basketball Association Eastern semifinal playoff.

The 6-foot-10 Malone, who hadn't played since April 10, dominated the middle as the 76ers took the lead late in the first period and never relinquished it.

The Knicks, who lost five of six to the 76ers during the regular season, face the 76ers in the second game of the best-of-seven set here on Wednesday night. Games 3 and 4 are in New York Saturday and Sunday.

New York was handicapped when its leading scorer, Bernard King, re-injured a sore right ankle just before the end of the first half and did not play the rest of the game. King had 11 points before leaving.

Pit Hockey Goes Prime Time

By Howard Breuer
and Howard S. Hershenhorn

The Irving Armageddon blew a close match against the pits in the first game of Thursday night's double-header. Evan Gubernick scored for Armageddon and Bob Nitty for the Pits in the first period. The two teams played a very rough game—there were many fights between the players of the two teams. It was by far the more violent of the two games. The Pits led Armageddon in penalty minutes by 22-18.

With only a few minutes left to play in the third period, Armageddon's Joe Marsicano surprised the undefeated Pits with their second goal of the evening. With Armageddon leading 2-1 with four minutes remaining, the Pits took control, with goals scored by Ian Weinberg and then by Scott Fields. It was a tough game, said Fields, "We didn't get any breaks at all, and when the pass came right to me I just dropped it in. It was the most exciting game I ever played."

Now that Armageddon has as many wins as losses, their chances of making it to the playoffs are doubtful. "They just took a lot more shots on us than we did on them. We didn't get any breaks that we could, and we only lost by one goal. The final score was Pits 5, Armageddon 2." The second game saw Head, last year's champions, meet the Strangers in a great display of straightforward hockey. "It was a good, clean game," said Joe Bertilino, one of the estimated 500 spectators at the campus first nighttime pit hockey game.

Head dominated most of the game. The weary Stranger defense failed to keep the pressure off of goalie Jim Brown. "I never had a chance," said Bertilino. "We were beaten by a pretty fast, pretty skilled team."

The second game was decided in the first period when Paul Skelton took a slap shot of a John O'Shea face off. This gave Head a 1-0 lead at the out of the field. The Strangers' defense failed to keep the pressure off of their goalie, Dan Hicks. "They just took a lot more shots on us than we did on them. We didn't get any breaks that we could, and we only lost by one goal. The final score was Head 4, Strangers 1."

The two winners of the night, Head and The Pits, are rated to be among the best teams in the league. They meet today at 3:30 PM in the pit.

Stony Brook Tennis Sinks Merchant Marines

By Sunil Matta

The Stony Brook tennis team played against the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy this past Saturday. Coach Al Weiss, who feels his team has been progressively improving, was excited about the match. Stony Brook won by the score of 8-3.

"The team has been working hard and we're making progress. The players are improving and we're getting better every week," Weiss said.

Stony Brook's number one needed a Mike Lee beat U.S.M.M.A's Dan Hicks 7-6, 6-4 and 6-2. Lee is the only freshman to have gained the number one spot at Stony Brook in 10 years. Lee is a serve and volley type player but realized that his opponents' passing shots were quite damaging. "He was passing me on my weak side," Lee said. He lost the second set, but came on to win the third and final set.

The other winners in the singles matches were Steve Sachs 6-2 and 6-3 over Tony Hartman and Alan Schepip over Fred Dowba and Tom Luch over Jeff Kalb in straight sets.

The doubles matches were the main attractions. Captains Dennis Marcus and Sachs played an excellent doubles game. They were very organized and controlled the net superbly.

The Pits have nine more games left this season, two of which are at home. The next home game is this Tuesday against C.W. Post.
