AUTUMN HARVEST HAPPENING:

Set aside some time in your work day to attend this festival on Wednesday, October 26, 10:00 - noon in Javits Room. Bring a dessert or other dish along with copies of the recipe for it. Cider, coffee and tea will be provided.

Also, Hanne has created a lovely, practical apron to be raffled. It is handpainted, but washable, with an autumn design. It is on display at Hanne's desk! Raffles at 50 cents each will be sold the day of the festival. Proceeds will go to Habitat for Humanity.

We would like to gather the library staff together at noon to go outdoors (provided weather is not stormy). We will stand together on the steps leading down to the Staller Center. At holiday time we may use this photo as our greeting card. (There is an example of such a card on Maryanne's counter.)

UPCOMING MIND AND SPIRITS:

Dan Kinney spent part of last winter /spring on sabbatical. His area of study was related to music history .

Date: Thursday, December 8

Time: 4:00 pm presentation (afterwards we can gather for dinner at a local eatery - Brook House perhaps)

Location: All Souls Episcopal Church, Stony Brook

Description: The program will be a lecture-recital on the 1854 Henry Erben tracker organ at All Souls Episcopal Church, Stony Brook on the Harbor. The work of Henry Erben, an important nineteenth-century American organ builder, will be discussed, and the organ will be demonstrated with musical selections by nineteenth-century American composers and French organist/composer Alexandre Guilmant, who had a significant influence on American organists and organ music through his recitals in the U.S. and the Guilmant Organ School in New York City. The lecture-recital was part of Dan's sabbatical project on the history of music in the Three Village/Port Jefferson area before the university was established. He gave this presentation for the Three Village Historical Society's 2004 Candlelight Tour. The historical society asked him to do the lecture-recital again for the 2005 tour on December 2-3. The performance will be in the historic church, which was designed by noted architect Stanford White, built in 1889, and placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 2000. The church will be decorated for the 2005 Candlelight Tour. (This description was submitted by Dan.)
