I am pleased to announce the appointments of H el ene Volat as head of Reference Services and Kristen Nyitray as head of Special Collections. H el ene has been acting head of Reference Services since September 1999. During this time she has brought stability to the department, improved its services, and demonstrated the highest standards of assistance to students and faculty. Under her leadership, Reference has begun online reference. With her husband, Prof. Robert Harvey, H el ene recently co-authored a major bibliography, Les  crits de Michel Deguy ( ditions de l'IMEC, 2002). Her responsibilities include management of the Central Reading Room and coordination of reference services involving staff from a number of departments. H el ene also serves on the reference, bibliographic instruction, and publicity teams.

Kristen has been acting head of Special Collections since May 2001. In these two years, she has brought in collections of national significance, significantly increased use of the collections, managed the organization of many manuscript collections, and established Special Collections as an important sponsor of literary and academic programs. Kristen is also a recent co-author, with Ann Becker, of Stony Brook State University of New York (Arcadia, 2002), a photographic history of the university that is widely used in campus development activities. Kristen's duties include development of the Friends of the Library and impresario of public programs as well as supervision of Special Collections. Kristen serves on the publicity and web teams.
