Winter Photos

This issue's photo gallery makes the transition from December graduation through the holidays and on into the new year, with faculty and staff awards, a concert and a holiday skate, winter break research and Sheldon Hall preservation. If you would like to submit photos of timely activities for future issues, e-mail pictures with a brief caption to proffice@oswego.edu.

Book examines portrayal of presidents on stage

While all the world's a stage for the American presidency, there had never been a book devoted to depictions of presidents in the theatre — until Bruce Altschuler's new book, "Acting Presidents: 100 Years of Plays About the Presidency." Read more >

Cupola clocks to return in preservation project

The clock strikes 150 this year at SUNY Oswego, making it all the more appropriate that the clocks will return to the cupola of the college's venerable flagship, Sheldon Hall. Read more >

Doppler-on-Wheels gathers data, media interest

Winter break's heavy snows and a radar-lugging truck have enabled meteorology professors and students to witness never-before-seen phenomena — like a line of seven waterspouts in one recent lake-effect storm. Read more >

Community engagement earns college Carnegie recognition

The Carnegie Foundation has awarded SUNY Oswego a prestigious Community Engagement Classification, recognizing that the college has deeply intertwined community engagement in its leadership, curriculum, outreach programs, strategic planning and community partnerships. Read more >
