November Photos

In this issue's photo gallery, the college flings open its doors to a (so far) gentle autumn full of energy: a business symposium, caring fundraisers and an open house, all topped off by a new mast on "Old Main." If you would like to submit photos of timely activities for future issues, email pictures with a brief caption to proffice@oswego.edu.

New software to help students stay on track

The college will begin using new degree-planning software during the spring semester to give students a visually informative tool to stay on course for graduation. Read more >

Professor's play to mark Twain's birthday
