Chancellor of Education Clifton Wharton expressed his "surprise and shock" after learning the results of a two-year study by the New York State Bureau of Land Management. The Bureau's report, not yet released to the public, concluded that the "...the property upon which the SUNY campus at Purchase is built, does not in its entirety fall under the jurisdiction of the Empire State."

Instead, the report states "there exists substantial evidence to show that the property behind and beyond Cottage Avenue lies within the borders of Connecticut."

The Load has learned that the impact of this report may be far reaching to the students who reside on campus. All students assigned housing in the new apartment complex will automatically be considered residents of Connecticut and will be charged out-of-state tuition rates.

For students who are concerned about the higher price tag on their education, Wharton offered reassurance saying "students who elect or are selected to live in the new apartments will not only be honored with a Connecticut address (a real plus when applying for jobs or graduate school), but they also get automatic use of Connecticut's public parks and libraries, as well as the right to return cans and bottles for a sizeable refund."

Mr. Burbon expected that the $70,000 of additional income expected to be generated by the new laws, would be used to build a split-level summer home for his demanding in-laws. "Nothing fancy," he explained, "just somewhere to escape to when the rigors of the governor become too great."

Especially if Koch becomes elected, there's no telling what continued on page 10
The new grading policy voted on last week is indeed a break-through. Never before has the Purchase faculty acted with such speed and good sense in a decision of this kind. The new system is based on a 1-100 scale. Students will be issued a single two-digit number at the end of each semester. This numeral would represent the average of the numerical grade for each class. For example, a student taking Woodwork, Introduction to Economics, American Poetry, and Chemistry II, and receiving grades of 99, 55, 82, and 23, would receive a simple, clean, and concise 64.75. No confusion. And no namby pamby hand-holding "evaluation."

In addition, the faculty has showed their commitment to education by carefully defining the criteria upon which these new grades will be handed out. This is a job which should have been done long ago. Up until now, grades have been awarded on the basis of such vague ideas as commitment, creativity, intelligence, and learning. However, the faculty have really surpassed themselves by defining and committing to paper those qualities which are truly relevant to any grading policy. The new system will award grades based on: attendance; appropriate dress; nodding in agreement; and use of course materials to make money. Grounds for failure will include missing class once, wearing outlandish clothing (to be judged impartially by Public Safety officers who will attend each class), breaking eye contact with the teacher, or, most importantly, the failure to raise at least $500 for each class, by utilizing what they have learned, and applying it to "the real world."

Decision....

President Grebstein recently made a proposal to the faculty which The Load feels should be strongly supported. The implications are far-reaching, and could provide great improvements for the academic programs of this school. Upon further thought, however, we feel that there are many unresolved questions raised by the proposal, and we urge that no hasty decisions be made.

The proposal, which would provide for various important changes of a not insignificant nature, would be effective immediately upon being passed, which makes us wonder. Should we rush ahead, and hope for the best, or should we be cautious, and perhaps take the risk of being too slow to fully reap the possible benefits of what we shall call "The Grebstein Proposal."

Upon further consideration, the answer appears obvious. Accept the proposal. We need it now, and it is worth a try. However, we feel that we would be shirking our responsibilities if we urged the passage of the proposal before the consequences were fully considered. In fact, the proposal is dangerous, and reactionary, and should be resoundingly defeated. Because of this, it may surprise some readers that we are going to ask for the proposal to be accepted, immediately. Which means only one thing: halt! Wait a few months, and then we'll see. The time is now.

Participation...

Editors of The Load are sorry to announce that all positions have been filled. As a matter of fact, they've been "filled" for a couple of years, and all this advertising for open positions has just been a joke."We wanted to see what suckers would actually take the bait. After a couple of years, and all this advertising for open positions has just been a joke." We wanted to see what suckers would actually take us up on such a ridiculous proposition as working on The Load, but we've been proved wrong. Anyways, the point is that no matter how much you wanted to work on The Load you missed your chance. Go back to sleep.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR. Please don't print this!
Dear Editor: There are two things on my mind as I sit, writing. One is of concern, I believe, to all students, and the other is personal, concerning just me and you. It's all muddled in my brain. Don't print anything embarrassing. There is not enough funding for the School of the Arts. Purchase should be a showcase for the arts: film, theater, music, dance, and visual arts. Albany must realize that it is these programs which should be stressed, even if it means cuts in the L & S Budget. I would love to wear your underwear or just smell it. I mean, that's the point of making Purchase into another Stony Brook or Oneonta? How about just one sniff? Couldn't Grebstein see that it would benefit the school more if the Natural Sciences Department was abolished, and the Film Department was supported instead? A study should be made. You should say yes. Please. Please, Sheldon. See that Arts is the real heart of this school. Please, woman, realize how much my heart has to offer. The Dance Department is great. I'd like to dance all over you.

Sincerely, Alvin Krebs, everydivion

NOT THE LOAD
Susi at Westchester Airport
Purchase Easter Seals
Commander in Chief
RONALD REAGAN

Editors-in-Chief
URSULA ABRAMS / VALERIE MCGAHEE

Sports Editor........Val Williamson
Schwartz Editor........David Schwartz
Yehudi Wyner Editor........Yehudi Wyner
For a good time, call........Risa Bell
For a better vibe, call........Patti Wishart
Miss Keaton's Wardrobe...Charis Conn
Special Thanks To........The J.D.L First Base........Lou Gehrig
Out in Left Field........Timm McDarragh
We have selected his name in........Bill Karpe
English Subtitles........John Halbig
Ring Ding Editor........Neal Rosenstein

Not The Load, April Fools!
Neuberger Museum Scoops Whitney

Neuberger spews cash, plays God, knocks students; so what else is new? In a surprise move, Suzanne Delahanty, director of The Neuberger Museum, disclosed today that from now on, the Museum will only exhibit works costing over 1,000,000.00.*

In addition, the Museum will be accepting not only art objects, but any objects, so long as they satisfy the new price requirement. Asked how she arrived at this plan, Ms. Delahanty sniffed a little and replied, "Well... The Whitney does it..." when pressed for verification of this statement, Ms. Delahanty said "Well...um...I don't really know if they do, but if they don't now, they will soon, and we'll have them scooped!"
Purchases for next year will include a lear jet, four pounds of uranium, and a small home in nearby Harrison. In addition, various notable New York artists are rising to the challenge by declaring certain objects and places as objects d'art. In accordance with one artist's wishes, Ms. Delahanty is having the entire country of Vietman shipped to the Neuberger for a special showing. "That will definitely cost more than a million," commented Ms. Delahanty proudly. One of the World Trade Center towers is also being eyed for possible purchase by the Museum.

Because her new price range will require substantially greater capital, Ms. Delahanty has developed a bold new fund raising technique: "We're hiring terrorists," she explained. "No more wine and cheese for Westchester...From now on, we're gonna go in and take it."

Ms. Delahanty will also be accepting donations from students, in exchange for which she will "allow their possessions to remain in tact in their rooms as well as letting them retain full use of their arms and legs."

However, Ms. Delahanty insists that no matter how large their contributions to the museum's funds, she would still rather not see them in or around the Museum, "Students create an aura of unprofessionalism," she insists. "Besides, they're dirty and they smell."

Reagan Visits Purchase As 'Mother' Of Year

President of the United States of America, and Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces, Ronald Reagan, arrived at Purchase Tuesday to accept the Mother of the Year Award, bestowed upon him by a group of Visual Arts students. Reagan, oblivious to a certain sarcasm in the award, spoke to an audience of three, including Neil Kaplan, Craig Leitner, and Sheldon Gremstein in the Humanities Auditorium.

The President seemed a bit embarrassed during the traditional award ceremony, where Kaplan had him walk around the Henry Moore Sculpture three times, kiss Mrs. Gremstein once, and finish by stroking one of the two large forms while rubbing himself on the other.

In his speech, Reagan said, "It was too hard to be a good father this year." But one hell of a year to be a good mother."
The crowd repeatedly yelled "Mother. You Mother." The aging President smiled, and commented, "I guess they like me," at which point he got on his knees and started singing "Mammy." He attended a reception after the ceremony, in a student's apartment where he was beaten up by members of the Jewish Defense League. Rabbi Meir Kahane commented "I should call my mother."

Social Science Studies

"Christ rose after three days, but Urban Affairs won't," promised President Gremstein, announcing the elimination of the Urban Affairs program. Also on the racks is the Jazz Program of the Music Division, and, if things continue at their present pace, the School of the Arts. Gremstein, questioned by dismayed students, responded, "Oh, this is so much fun. I can fire people, and hire people, and move them around from division to division. I never dreamed being a President could be so enjoyable." Later, in a more philosophical mood, Gremstein mused, "It's my right, isn't it? I want to eliminate it, and I'm going to. The Purchase education is too broad. It needs some narrow-mindedness. er. um. I mean narrow vision, no, um. I mean depth. That's it. Depth."

When asked if any other factors affected his decision, Shelley replied, "Tradition, tradition!" and muttered something about the value of an education. "Do you realize that in Biology classes, they're actually teaching this new-fangled evolution stuff, and in Geology, they're advocating the roundness of the Earth? Yes, Environmental Sciences, Marxists in Urban Affairs. One of those Urban Affairs professors was a member of the Students for a Democratic Society, that filthy un-American twine..."

But Hank Savage, (another Urban Affairs professor) he's my kind of guy. He'll sell out his program and his peers to save himself. A real Hobbesian individualist. uh. is anyone listening?"

At this point, the small band of students decided to take their leave from Greby's office. The President, letter-opener in hand, continued in a maniacal tone to himself, hacking chunks out of his desk, and saying "I'd do it even if there were no budget cuts. I'd do it even if we got additional faculty positions. Maybe I'll even cut this article from the newspaper!"

*Larger Two Forms seen here, giving birth to healthy, bouncing 36 lb. boy. Henry Moore could not be reached for comment.

Good News! No Attempted Arrest

A 21-year-old woman student was not attacked early Saturday morning, according to Public Safety Director Mark Albrecht. The student, whose name is not being released, was not attacked as she was walking from the laundry room in the dorms at 10:30 in the morning. She was not even approached, and nothing out of the ordinary occurred. "Thank God" stated Albrecht, "it would have been horrible if she was attacked."
The student, whose name is not being released, woke up early to do her laundry. She put her wash in around 9 AM, and had just gotten her clothes all fresh and warm and clean, from the dryer, when she began to walk back to her room. She opened the door to her stairwell, still clutching her clothes, and climbed two flights. Upon reaching the top of the stairs, she went down the hall, unlocked the door to her room, folded her clothes, and then went to eat in the dining hall.

She was very lucky, mused Albrecht as he finished off his Roast Beef entree during a luncheon interview with this reporter. She probably doesn't even realize how lucky she is. Being attacked is frightening, vicious, and stupid."

Police have announced that a 23-year-old Harrison resident is not being held; there is more than ample proof that he was at work as a local diner during the time of the non-incident. Let this be a lesson to all of you, be you man or woman, be you white or black, or be you all of the above.

Silly Shelly Sacks...
Chadwick's Airheads Opens Next Week

Notorious alumnus, Stefan Petrucha announced today, in an interview with the Load, that he is actually a student here at all. "I'm an alumnus," said Petrucha, "sent here to do research." While many find his tale of interplanetary travel hard to believe, Petrucha's closest friends are the first to admit "it makes sense.

He's always been a bit odd," commented long-time collaborator Adam Bluenstein. Aside from his various, more obvious supernatural powers (mind control, ability to talk to penguins, to name a few), Petrucha has also perfected a kind of eternal youth. When pressed, his friends admit that Stefan seems "just as healthy now" as he did freshman year. The terrible truth is, he has not even changed his underwear since then; he is exactly the same.

"This month marks the finish of his fifth video epic, the fourth in the airheads series. Of this effort, Chadwick's Airheads, the motoc picture Petrucha had this to say "we're really finished, I mean really...well...there's a little editing, but that's nothing...we're ready to go."

Petrucha will return to his phmet for a complete overhaul. For late risers.) Lunch, 6:30-7:00 a.m. and Dinner: 7:30-8:00 a.m., for really late risers, jello will be available. Not The Load, April Fools!

---

College of Purchase To Be Disassembled

College, a sculpture piece installed ten years ago by the artist Christo, will be dismantled early this May. The piece consists of a series of buildings, composed entirely of brown bricks, and is located in the village of Purchase. An environmental piece, which called for the participation of people who were coaxed into thinking of themselves as "structures," College literally created the illusion of an actual college campus. The unwitting participants walked into the buildings daily, and attended what they thought were "classes." A false parking lot, a fake dormitory complex, and a mock dining hall added to the illusion.

Christo's art is known for its ephemeral nature, "Sculpture exists in time. Ten years is long for one of my pieces to exist. I think "College," (which has come to be known as "Sunny College at Purchase") was one of my more successful pieces, because it involved a large number of active participants. I saw it as kind of an absurdist parody of the educational system. I'm not sure if people got the joke."

---

Editor Stands Alone As Load Staff Resigns

The entire Load staff resigned today, in protest against an article in the April Fool's issue which stated that the entire Load staff resigned in protest to an article in the current April Fool's issue. The staff also cited disturbance with an increase in the amount of "inside" jokes appearing in the paper, which they claimed could only be appreciated by Load staff members (get it, Usula). The only staff member to remain aboard was Editor Ursula Brahm, who was last seen standing on a chair, repeating, "it's all mine. I am Ursula, Editor-in-Chief," as a group of three small men, presumably involved in a religious cult, shuffled into the office, following their leader, known as Ben Zona.

---

Foreign Warfare vs. Jello in America

Social Sciences Professor Peter Bell and Continental Kitchens Manager Ed Bogusz will be co-moderator for a panel discussion which will explore the two issues: Guerilla Warfare in Third World Countries, and Jello in America. Bell has repeatedly demanded that Reagan keep American jello out of El Salvador, and Bogusz has repeatedly demanded that Reagan keep Peter Bell out of jello. President Reagan could not be reached for comment.

---

Warning to Seniors of Life After Purchase

For those of you who may or may not be considering marriage after graduation you should be aware that over 50% of today's marriages end in divorce. If you're caught off-guard you can really take a beating in the courts. McKinney's Consolidated Laws of New York offers reference to the layman on divorce law and other legal problems. Laws are clearly indexed by subject and are followed by examples and decisions from past cases. For example:

Wife's conduct, including misuse of barbiturates, making of unfounded and unjust accusations against her husband, failure to attend social functions and to perform her marital duties and obligations, which conduct allegedly caused her husband to lose sleep and adversely affected his ability to concentrate and perform his duties as a podiatrist.

---

Vandals Invert Bricks In Campus Attack

In a meaningless, and unwarranted gesture, a group of vandals attacked the campus last Friday night, and inverted all of the bricks. One by one, they took out each brick, turned it upside down and put it back. Students are asked not to lean on any walls for the next while tension tests are made.
1 Thursday
6:00-7:30 a.m. Riding Club Breakfast. Oats and sugar cubes will be served. Bring coffee.
12 noon Discussion: Women's Union. Three women actresses will discuss what it feels like to talk at a noon-time discussion for Women's Union.
4:30 p.m. Student Senate Agenda Committee meeting. To determine agenda for the next Agenda Meeting.
5:00 p.m. The next Agenda Meeting. Cancelled.
8:00 p.m. International Film Series. Fellini's sequel to his beloved masterpiece, 8%. Also, Cries and Whispers. Yabba Dabba Doo, Ingmar Bergman's first film with the Flintstones.

2 Friday
9:00 a.m. Christian Fellowship Breakfast. White toast, eggs, and coffee will be served.
9:30 a.m. Jewish Defense League Breakfast. Christian Fellowship will be served.
12 noon Commuter's Breakfast. For users of Conrail. Lukewarm coffee.
4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. Heliotrope and Puco. On number 12 bus. Sponsored by Commuter's Club.
5:30 p.m. Organizational meeting for Gay Shame Week. Fireside Lounge.
5:30 p.m. Gay and Lesbian Union meeting. Fireside Lounge.
5:30 p.m. Mormon Tabernacle Choir. Fireside Lounge.
5:30 p.m. Film Showing. A Night at the Opera. Fireside Lounge.
8:00 p.m. Theater Performance. Much Ado About Oklahoma! Musical version of Shakespeare's classic, set in the Midwest.

3 Saturday
12 noon Purchase Men's Basketball vs. Harrison Elementary School Dodge Ball Team.
6:00 p.m. Music recital. Yehudi Wyner will play selections from Debussy and Beethoven, while whining.
8:00 p.m. Purchase Dance Corpse. The Nutcracker Slaughter. Little girls dream of mass pillage in updated version of beloved family classic.
10:00 p.m. Diverse Death Disco. Music of Bob Marley, John Belushi, John Lennon, Mozart, and Guy Lombardo.

4 Sunday
8:00 a.m. Go back to sleep, wimp.
1:00 p.m. Now you can wake up.
2:00 p.m. Back to sleep.
9:00 p.m. Coffee House. Coffee, to wake you up. Bad folk music, to put you to sleep.

5 Monday
10:00 a.m. Counseling Workshop. For people who are shorter than Sheldon Grebstein.
10:30 a.m. Counseling Workshop. For people who are Sheldon Grebstein.
12 noon Out-of-Touch Workshop. For people who would rather not deal with their feelings.
4:30 p.m. Physics lecture. Heinrich Snell discusses the advantages of nuclear annihilation.
5:00 p.m. Nuclear annihilation.

HEALTH AWAITS YOU

DR. HAMILTON CHIROPRACTIC SPECIALIST
Where sick people get well. He will gladly explain how his drugless method can benefit your particular ailment.

OFFICE: 956 CHAPEL ST.
PHONE: 10-1-3 to 8 P.M.

7 Wednesday
5:00 p.m. Senior Project Opening. VA Gallery. Wine and Cheese Party, a participatory performance piece.
8:00 p.m. Hippocrene. Cappuccino Lounge. Richard Stack will read passages of Finnegan's Wake to himself, while drinking coffee. Neil Kaplan will interrupt, and sing "Delta Dawn."
10:00 p.m. WNAS at CCS, for WPUR. Music of XTC, ELO, ELP, PIL, CSN, and the Symbionese Liberation Army.

6 Tuesday
12 noon Drug Counselling Workshop. Where to get the best deal. How to deal with the mushroom shortage. Fireside Lounge.
3:00 p.m. Food Co-op. Special sale for non-members, on unidentifiable vegetables.
5:00 p.m. Thrift Shop and Food Co-op. Sale on used vegetables.
8:00 p.m. Senate Films. Great Numbers Retrospective. 2001, 8½, 10, 5 Easy Pieces, 1776, 1900, 1941. One dollar donation. Two dollar donation. Three dollar donation...
SPRINTS

Lookout sports fans! Football has arrived.

Beginning this May, the New York Jets will be practicing on the Purchase campus while coaching Purchase's newly acquired football team (Large Eleven Forms). The Jets have been practicing at Hofstra University for several years. Negotiations lasted for three weeks before President Grebstein and Athletic Supporter Artie Paul Blouin were able to make an offer Hofstra couldn't refuse. Hofstra authorities will begin arriving the first of May to claim the statue, Large Two Forms, and portions of the Dance Building, which they received through the negotiations.

As a result of Blouin's recruiting program, twenty high school and fifteen college football players will be entering the newly formed Division of Physical Opportunity. President Grebstein was confronted by a student group at a special public town meeting, Thursday. One student protested Grebstein's "selfish" use of power that compromised educational principles upon which Purchase was founded. To the student's question, "Why the hell are you going out of your way to conform this college to mainstream principles?" Grebstein responded, "I resemble that remark, for I believe that this college was founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of their mental capacity, has a right to public education and Walter Anderson."

President Grebstein was confronted by a student group at a special public town meeting, Thursday. One student protested Grebstein's "selfish" use of power that compromised educational principles upon which Purchase was founded. To the student's question, "Why the hell are you going out of your way to conform this college to mainstream principles?" Grebstein responded, "I resemble that remark, for I believe that this college was founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of their mental capacity, has a right to public education and Walter Anderson."

Nelson Rockefeller could not be reached for comment.

The Environmental Protection Agency and the ASPCA have decided that the swimming pool at Purchase will have to close due to large beaver occupation.

Last night, the two agencies were called in to take control of the situation. Nineteen workers, twenty high school and fifteen college football players will be entering the newly formed Division of Physical Opportunity. President Grebstein was confronted by a student group at a special public town meeting, Thursday. One student protested Grebstein's "selfish" use of power that compromised educational principles upon which Purchase was founded. To the student's question, "Why the hell are you going out of your way to conform this college to mainstream principles?" Grebstein responded, "I resemble that remark, for I believe that this college was founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of their mental capacity, has a right to public education and Walter Anderson."

Nelson Rockefeller could not be reached for comment.

The Environmental Protection Agency and the ASPCA have decided that the swimming pool at Purchase will have to close due to large beaver occupation.

Last night, the two agencies were called in to take control of the situation.

Rin Two Ton eating fish at Purchase pool.

Dance Building, which they received through the negotiations.

As a result of Blouin's recruiting program, twenty high school and fifteen college football players will be entering the newly formed Division of Physical Opportunity. President Grebstein was confronted by a student group at a special public town meeting, Thursday. One student protested Grebstein's "selfish" use of power that compromised educational principles upon which Purchase was founded. To the student's question, "Why the hell are you going out of your way to conform this college to mainstream principles?" Grebstein responded, "I resemble that remark, for I believe that this college was founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of their mental capacity, has a right to public education and Walter Anderson."

Nelson Rockefeller could not be reached for comment.

The Environmental Protection Agency and the ASPCA have decided that the swimming pool at Purchase will have to close due to large beaver occupation.

Last night, the two agencies were called in to take control of the situation.

Rin Two Ton eating fish at Purchase pool.

Dance Building, which they received through the negotiations.

As a result of Blouin's recruiting program, twenty high school and fifteen college football players will be entering the newly formed Division of Physical Opportunity. President Grebstein was confronted by a student group at a special public town meeting, Thursday. One student protested Grebstein's "selfish" use of power that compromised educational principles upon which Purchase was founded. To the student's question, "Why the hell are you going out of your way to conform this college to mainstream principles?" Grebstein responded, "I resemble that remark, for I believe that this college was founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of their mental capacity, has a right to public education and Walter Anderson."

Nelson Rockefeller could not be reached for comment.

The Environmental Protection Agency and the ASPCA have decided that the swimming pool at Purchase will have to close due to large beaver occupation.

Last night, the two agencies were called in to take control of the situation.
Lovers of such great directors as Fellini, Kurosawa, Antonioni, and Sukiyaki, have learned to look to the lini, Kurosawa, Antonioni, and finance grave. Though cinematic tastes will not be satisfied, some of the more elemental human urges will. On Thursday nights, the white screen will be besmirched with some of the vilest acts of perversion ever committed. Jfthis plan is successful, and he gets his ticket to Japan, we can only hope that he stays there.

Thursday, April 1st, 1982.

IN THE REALM OF THE ANUS. By Nagisa Oshima.

Six Dollar donation. Showtimes: 8, 10, 12, 2, 4, 6, 8 o'clock.

Japanese director Nagisa Oshima is well known for his sensitive human social dramatic epic. Film lovers will fondly remember his heartbreaking family saga Ballad of a Boy and his Little Sister. Also, his lyrical early films, Oh, Waier! and The Sound of Wind Rustling Through the Trees, will never be forgotten. These films were made before Oshima's 1975 lobotomy. Since then, his output has consisted of about six handfuls of drool, and in the Realm of the Anus, an exploration of human orifices which has been banned in every nation on Earth. Oshima never fails to hamper the true creative process. So does good lighting." Patty has been in the works for over three weeks (and so has the film). Lobo promises to have it finished in time for the showing. Coppola, shmoppola! Nick Lobo's films contain an abundance of the vital juices, which flow forth on the screen in ways that Orson Welles never dreamed possible.

Patty... is the first part of a double feature. Along with the Lobo film, a rarely shown Icelandic classic, The Amount of Time it Takes for Snow to Melt on the Tongue of a Crippled Little Icelandic Boy, will be screened. Joody Wy-Nah stars in this four hour documentary which indict the dangerous conditions which Icelandic fishermen are exposed to daily. A slow paced film, but one which is sure to move you. It could in fact be called the greatest film ever made in Northern Iceland since World War II. Director Jan Haskala, founder of the Icelandic New Wave, says of his film, "Most of it isn't my fault. Film is a collaborative art form."

The real key to the production (and this is not to lessen the company's brilliant ensemble work) was Steve Weber's surprise impact of the film's humorous opening scene, where a little boy unwittingly falls into a hole in the lake, and drowns, while the camera goes in and out of focus, in a biting satire on the role of the cinematographer in documentary filmmaking.

Junior Actors Glow In Switchboard Operator Show

Guest director Lawrence Kornfeld has done it again. As part of Howard Stein's New York Telephone Company Festival, Portrait of a Corporation, Kornfeld adapted, and directed the Junior Company in a brilliant stage production which converted the Manhattan Telephone Directory into a visual and dramatic spectacle. Kornfeld's genius is his ability to translate a seemingly immutable body of words and numbers into a series of images and sounds which touches our emotions and almost makes us think. I will never forget the sight of three Junior actresses emerging, unclad, from a large mound of lime jello.

The real key to the production (and this is not to lessen the company's brilliant ensemble work) was Steve Weber's tour de force performance. The play uses multiple casting. Each actor plays a number of roles. The berth contains one million characters. Weber singlehandedly played sixty and forty thousand parts. He was a convincing Murray Aaron, and showed the versatility to create completely different characterizations for such comical figures as Harold Aaron, Marc Aaron, and Aaron's Fish Market.

What the play lacks in plot (and remember, this is the 20th century) it makes up for in spectacle. Would it be possible for Weber to outdo his performance as James Joyce in Finnegan's Wake? The answer came in the beginning of the third act (the play is broken into six hundred and forty nine acts, with forty three intermissions) when Weber consumed a live cat, and disemboweled himself. He reappeared later, with a poignant portrayal of Berr Klimberg, phone number 654-4823.

Dean of Theater Howard Stein is bearing over the success of his New York Telephone Company Festival. "It's an attempt to meet the tastes of the local community, and to bridge the gap between the performing arts and corporate greed. "Joyce, Shmoyce," remarked Stein. "This is where the action is." Portrait of a Corporation continues this week with the following events: Richard Stack will recite Irish names and numbers from the Brooklyn Phone Book, in the Followspot Cafe. The Senior Actors will perform Dial-a-Cabaret. To hear some of the classic show-stoppers from Broadway history, just call the Seniors at 253-8755. Admission to the cabaret show is $3.00, and $1.50 if you call after 11:00 PM.

Not The Load, April Fools!
The Pump House Gang is all and living in B-1

AFT/HOME BLESSINGS, EXORCISM
Legislatore, Amierica, Peaceful, 630-877

To Pranums and Ziggy: Thanks for being such great friends! You make the true meaning of friendship come alive. Info-Booth worker (aka K.D.)

Thankyou
Kary, Pam, Michael- For the Haugen-Dass Dina, Lorraine and Prerna-For the lunch Alex- For the wine and flowers Arnie- For the good words Michael- For the pen, the beer and the tapes Denise- For the tickets Lorraine- For the memo pad, the lollipops and the party Mele- For the compliments Prerna- For the date book Kary- For the thankyou The fresh-people- For being a pleasure to each!

Michael, If you don’t stop those 21st birthday mass orgies in your room, we’re going to have to call the anti-decadence squad.

S— Yes my parents just left and you can come up wherever you send and say anything. pili up with my moodiness, inconsistencies and superstitious types. Method actors who are convinced they ARE Christ show feeling guilty about! Call (914) 937-

JOHN LENNON COLLECTORS MUST

NORTHWEST GALLERY

1035 W. 38 St., NYC

Hey Don! Since you’ve become an RA you

BEAUTY IS BUSINESS. (212) 226-423,

To Peanuts and Ziggy: Thanks for being such great friends!! You make the true meaning of friendship come alive. Info-Booth worker (aka K.D.)

Thankyou
Kary, Pam, Michael- For the Haugen-Dass Dina, Lorraine and Prerna-For the lunch Alex- For the wine and flowers Arnie- For the good words Michael- For the pen, the beer and the tapes Denise- For the tickets Lorraine- For the memo pad, the lollipops and the party Mele- For the compliments Prerna- For the date book Kary- For the thankyou The fresh-people- For being a pleasure to each!

Michael, If you don’t stop those 21st birthday mass orgies in your room, we’re going to have to call the anti-decadence squad.

S— Yes my parents just left and you can come up wherever you send and say anything. pili up with my moodiness, inconsistencies and superstitious types. Method actors who are convinced they ARE Christ show feeling guilty about! Call (914) 937-

JOHN LENNON COLLECTORS MUST

NORTHWEST GALLERY

1035 W. 38 St., NYC

Hey Don! Since you’ve become an RA you

BEAUTY IS BUSINESS. (212) 226-423,

To Peanuts and Ziggy: Thanks for being such great friends!! You make the true meaning of friendship come alive. Info-Booth worker (aka K.D.)

Thankyou
Kary, Pam, Michael- For the Haugen-Dass Dina, Lorraine and Prerna-For the lunch Alex- For the wine and flowers Arnie- For the good words Michael- For the pen, the beer and the tapes Denise- For the tickets Lorraine- For the memo pad, the lollipops and the party Mele- For the compliments Prerna- For the date book Kary- For the thankyou The fresh-people- For being a pleasure to each!

Michael, If you don’t stop those 21st birthday mass orgies in your room, we’re going to have to call the anti-decadence squad.

S— Yes my parents just left and you can come up wherever you send and say anything. pili up with my moodiness, inconsistencies and superstitious types. Method actors who are convinced they ARE Christ show feeling guilty about! Call (914) 937-

JOHN LENNON COLLECTORS MUST

NORTHWEST GALLERY

1035 W. 38 St., NYC

Hey Don! Since you’ve become an RA you

BEAUTY IS BUSINESS. (212) 226-423,

To Peanuts and Ziggy: Thanks for being such great friends!! You make the true meaning of friendship come alive. Info-Booth worker (aka K.D.)

Thankyou
Kary, Pam, Michael- For the Haugen-Dass Dina, Lorraine and Prerna-For the lunch Alex- For the wine and flowers Arnie- For the good words Michael- For the pen, the beer and the tapes Denise- For the tickets Lorraine- For the memo pad, the lollipops and the party Mele- For the compliments Prerna- For the date book Kary- For the thankyou The fresh-people- For being a pleasure to each!

Michael, If you don’t stop those 21st birthday mass orgies in your room, we’re going to have to call the anti-decadence squad.

S— Yes my parents just left and you can come up wherever you send and say anything. pili up with my moodiness, inconsistencies and superstitious types. Method actors who are convinced they ARE Christ show feeling guilty about! Call (914) 937-