

"I know we've both got our issues ..."

By: Lauren M. Halligan

I know we've both got our issues with trust,
I'll hang on to my key,
and you'll stay locked up.
But if I promise myself that I'll never hurt you,
and you promise me that you'll always be true.
That would be enough.

"On this Valentine's Day ..."

By: Lauren M. Halligan

On this Valentine's Day my dearest friend,
You hold the key which opens up my heart.
With every single smile that you lend,
You unlock yet another empty part.
I wore this key so many lonely days,
Waiting for someone worthy of my love,
You've shown me in a plethora of ways,
That you can be the keyholder thereof.
This key grants you the right to guard my soul,
A duty that is yours forevermore,
Protecting all the chambers as a whole
This key will open every single door.
And deep inside you will find true beauty
A secret garden meant for you and me.

Love Always,
Lauren

"Once you ignited a flame ..."

By: Lauren M. Halligan

Once you ignited a flame in my heart,
one that I thought was long lost.
And now come to find,
it was you, the same you,
that stifled the fire you grew.