His Majesty, The American

Marcia moderato

Ev-ry Yan-kee who's a Yan-kee is so proud of it,
Ev-ry Yan-kee who's a Yan-kee sticks right to the end.
And you must admit, He always does his bit.
Smith or Jones, or Brown or Cohen or Doyle may be his friend,
On him you can depend.

He never is ashamed to let you know from whence he came,
It makes him feel so happy when he's done a noble deed,
You'll recognize a friend to every man.

Yan-kee anywhere.
He's glad to help him any time he can.
His spirit seems to dominate the air.
His Majesty, the American

You can knock him down but he'll come right up again.

He doesn't crave great riches; a kingdom, or a throne, he'd rather be the king of his little home sweet home. A friend in need, and a friend indeed. He's a gentleman in every way.

Tho' he may settle down in some land 'er the sea.

You can bet your bottom dollar that he'll always be, His Majesty, the American. He's a credit to the U. S. A. His Majesty.
