Moderato.

Look a' here, Liz - a,
Look a' here, Liz - a,

Listen to me;
You aint the gal you promised to be;
take off those rings;
Dig in that trunk, gal; hand me those things;

Did-n't you say you al-ways would be true, oo, oo, oo,
I'm gwine to take the clothes I paid for, too, oo, oo, oo, oo? You went a driv-ing with Mis-ter Brown;

oo! Cough up that old gold watch, and de chain;

Now I'm the laugh-ing stock of the town; Folks say that I was Wants that um-brel-la, cause it might rain; Ask Mis-ter Brown to cra-zy to trust you, oo, oo, oo, oo.

fix you up all new; oo, oo, oo, oo.

Good Bye Eliza Jane
Throw up my hands, babe, I se'gwine to go;
Rent time is here, babe; land-lord to day;
Can't stand the blow;
I'll be a-way;

I loved you so;
Who's gwine to pay?
I was the good thing while P'raps Mis-ter Brown will

I had the "dough,"
If he's a jay,
Now I must whisper low:
Once more to you I say:

CHORUS.

"Good-bye, Eliza Jane,
I'm gwine a' for to

Good Bye Eliza Jane 4
leave you! well, you'll know, when I go, that I was the fellow with the dough, dough, dough; so I'm gwine for to sing a little song, And travel a long, just travel a long; Wish you good-day, Babe;

I'm on my way; Good-by, Eliza Jane.
A FRAGMENT OF
THE LATEST VON TILZER COON SONG

Hannah, Won't You Open That Door.

Words by ANDREW B. STERLING:

Music by
HARRY VON TILZER:

Moderato.

Bill's at the door,
Let me in please,

chilled to the core,
Please, baby Hannah, take me back once more;

honest till freeze,
I'll surely catch the grippe starting to sneeze;
