REPORT FROM THE PRESIDENT

In May we graduated our third class. The Class of 1977 approximated 450 individuals. This brings our total to about 900 alumni. We now think we have enough alumni on the job and in graduate school to begin our self-study for Middle States Association.

During the 1977-78 academic year we will be contacting all of you to obtain your assessment of the kind of education you received while attending the Upper Division College. We need to know what we are doing right, what we are doing wrong, what we should eliminate, and what we should add to the curriculum to help you and your successors do a better job.

You will be pleased to learn that our fall enrollment came in on target. We have more than 1,700 full-time equivalent (FTE) students made up of 1,100 full-time and 1,900 part-time scholars. Should we receive the funds budgeted, we intend to increase our numbers to more than 1,900 FTE's in 1978-79. By the first of the year, I expect the SUNY Trustees will find a solution to our campus problem.

During the past year we acquired an elementary school in Rome to serve as an extension center and an elementary school near the campus to serve as our science center. Incidentally, Shirley Wurz and Charlie Broadway retired last spring. Dr. Kopecek left during the summer to assume the presidency of a community college in Pennsylvania.

We think and talk of you often. We would welcome your visit whenever your travels take you to the Mohawk Valley. Come and see us!

Sincerely,

William R. Kunsela
President

ROME CENTER IN OPERATION

THE ROME CENTER, the newest addition to the State University College at Utica/Rome, is in full operation. Its growth has been instantaneous, meeting the highest expectations. Course offerings have grown from two graduate courses to three graduate courses and nine undergraduate courses, with approximately 270 course enrollments, which equates to an FTE of over 70.

Personal contacts with officials at Griffiss Air Force Base, Rome Developmental Center, Marcy Hospital, New York Psychiatric Center and local businesses and industries have indicated the need for the Center. Presently, we are in the process of compiling and evaluating these needs and planning for future semesters.

The building housing the Rome Center is attractive, with many large windows. To date, the renovation process of the Center is not yet complete but is proceeding steadily without interfering with the operation of the Center.

We will keep you informed of our progress.

J. R. Ostrander, Director
Rome Center & Extension Programs

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

The Student Activities Office offers us a partial calendar of events for the remainder of this semester. No doubt more entertainment will be booked in the future. Interested alumni are asked to call ahead to verify the time and place of a given event. See you there!!!

REPORT FROM THE PRESIDENT OF U.R.S.A.

I have been asked to forward to you any points which I feel may be of some interest to you relevant to your Alma Mater. First, permit me to introduce myself: Dennis W. Woodgate, President of the Student Association, which you should recall as "U.R.S.A."

For you graduates, who have passed through these hallowed halls a few years back and have yet to return, you might find the campus improvements to be amazing. The once drab Center is now a center of some delight. Our new Pub Manager, Pat Perfetto, a '76 grad, has put a vast amount of time, energy and creativeness in the Pub. Today, a twelve-seat bar, with backbar and all the trimmings adorn the Center. The range of service has grown from beer and wine to full accommodations.

If you remember the Multi-Purpose Room, you might have had some trouble recognizing it a few weekends ago. In conjunction with Hamilton/Kirkland, Utica and Mohawk Valley Community Colleges, Upper Division played co-host to the Association of College Unions - Intl. yearly conference. The Multi-Purpose Room was the scene of a banquet which served in excess of 180 guests. And no one was sitting on anyone else's lap. The Center and the Pub served as an exhibit and social area for guests from 37 neighboring state and Canadian colleges.

From the view of the students, Dr. Muraibito, the new Vice President for Student Affairs, is doing a great job. A search for a Vice President for Academic Affairs to replace Dr. Kopecek is still in progress. (Dr. Kopecek is now president of a community college in northern Pennsylvania.) There is a new face in the Bookstore -- Manager Frank Custodero replaces John Carro who ventured into his own business enterprise.

Another graduate, John Spontelli, is now the Veterans Representative on campus, replacing Tom Fenton who has gone on to graduate school. Dr. Bill still holds the reins with his firm hands at the converted factory.

I recently played host to Jay Radway, an appointee from Assemblyman Perry Duryea's Albany Office. He was on campus to receive, first-hand, the priorities of the students at Upper Division. He was bombarded with requests which included: the Marcy campus, a professional doctor on campus, better strength and better equipped security police, inter-collegiate athletic programs, intra-school TV and radio equipment, better lighting for the area of parking, more faculty, more classroom space, and, in general, a lot more attention from the big guys in Albany.

This has been only the tip of the iceberg, and if you are still interested, may I suggest you pay us a visit. Then you can see for yourself how the factory on Court Street still manages to look a little better with each effort and with each day.

Sincerely,

Dennis W. Woodgate
Even in the few short years that the Human Services Program at Upper Division has been in operation, there have been demands for constant change and innovation from the community. Our graduates must constantly be prepared for the real world of tomorrow. This demands that the student of today must be ready to re-examine the practices of our social agencies of yesterday and be ready to develop and deliver new kinds of services in new and innovative ways upon graduation.

Social agencies of the 70's must reach out to their clients with a vast variety of services. Among other things, they must offer hotlines, community education, consumer advocacy, legal rights directions, affirmative action assistance, assertiveness training, medical information, career reprogramming and mainstreaming of those who were once confined to their homes, institutions, beds and wheelchairs. In addition to the mentally retarded, emotionally ill, the blind, the physically retarded and the elderly, they must also assist the newly divorced, the recently raped, the attempted suicide and the terminally ill.

The faculty of the Human Services Division has met the challenge head on. We used to wait until the senior years for students to have contact with the "real" world when placed in their practicum agencies. No longer do our juniors have to postpone their anxiety for a whole year and worry about how they can make it with a "live" client and in a real-life situation. They can now begin to worry from their first day at school. In fact, their counseling courses take them right out to a working social laboratory and they start interviewing and interacting with real honest-to-goodness clients within the first weeks of school. Our students start at our main lab at Hunter House in downtown Utica where they meet with retired persons and former residents of local institutions. Here they learn to understand what a client really feels like to have to make it again on his/her own. If students demonstrate independence and responsible behavior, they can then, under the guidance of Professor Goodman or Professor Stember, try their wings in other settings such as Head Start, the A.R.C. Workshop, the Public School or a Neighborhood Center.

In addition to our labs, we have also begun to make use of modern techniques in the classrooms by making videotapes of simulated interviews between students, role-playing clients and Human Service workers in the kinds of dramatic "real life" situations that would rend the heart of the most blase Academy Award critic. Discussing and criticizing one's colleagues in a professional's or client's role in a closed-circuit TV screen is a long step in learning how it looks and feels to be a live, helping person. In addition, students also use audiotapes of their interviews of self-peer criticizing.

Our senior classes have also been getting out "into the action" a good deal more of late. In addition to their usual practicum placement under Professor Drescoll's direction, they have been involved in making community surveys, followup studies on services needed by clients discharged from the Rome Developmental Center over the past five years and they have developed questionnaires on the needs of clients of the A.R.C. over the next ten years. In addition, our classes on Social Policy and Administration have been getting into public hearings on Consumer Affairs and Power Rate Hikes on the local level. Our enthusiasm has waxed so high that several Utica/Rome students had letters on social issues published in their own hometown press. So all in all, the "voice of the turtle" (our own Utica/Rome turtledove) will be heard throughout the land.

FROM MRS. O'BRIEN, PRINCIPAL, LAWRENCE STEVENS

ACADEMIC COUNCIL MEETING

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. O'Brien. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. O'Brien then presented the budget for the coming year. The budget includes funds for new technology and expanded programs. The faculty were encouraged to submit proposals for new initiatives. The meeting adjourned.

NEWS FROM THE ARTS & SCIENCES DEPARTMENT

The Arts & Sciences Division is impatiently awaiting the completion of our science facilities in Potter School. There have been some delays and difficulties, probably inevitable in any such project, but we now have formal occupancy dates, July 1 and August 1. The new building includes a core facility, dedicated to the sciences, and a number of specialty areas. We have also signed contracts with several local businesses to provide additional support services. The division has been working closely with the Construction Committee to ensure that the facilities meet our needs.

The division has been working and planning on a variety of short- and long-term projects and aspirations. The most immediate of these, the brainchild of Professors Evi Nemeth and Ron Sarnar, entails completion of a computerized transfer-credit and advising system which would supply current printouts of each student's progress and show "at a glance" what she or he still needs to complete for each curriculum. Still in the future, but certainly closer to achievement than before, is the implementation of a full-scale degree program in Computer Science for which there appears to be a substantial demand.

In cooperation with the Business/Public Management Division and through the agency of Dr. M. Falcone, the College's representative for special projects, the Arts & Sciences Division has helped devise a curriculum for Civil Service employees who will be aided by their agencies to reach Bachelor's degrees with concentrations in Government Management. The program, which has been approved by the Civil Service commission, will be operated in five upstate locations, with Utica as the center and headquarters.

Some professional and personal notes:

PROFESSOR MARGARET DRAUGHS (Psychology) has returned from a weekend conference on Love and Attraction held in Swansea, Wales, and sponsored by the British Psychological Society. She chaired a session on "Mate Selection" and gave a paper on "Mate Selection and the Lady Role." Later the New York Times was sufficiently attracted to run a partial account of the meeting in a recent issue. The international group of scholars who reported on their research generally agreed that stable and happy relationships develop when couples are similar and equal in status and interests.

PROFESSORS MIKE HORBURG and RAY JERVIS have spent much of the summer working on their large project of an innovative, interdisciplinary textbook in ecology. They have been doing extensive fieldwork and photography in the woods and waters of the state and are tapping an initial draft of their manuscript.

MS. ROSEMARY MULLICK has just joined our faculty as Assistant Professor of Psychology. To fill the remaining three-fourths of Dr. Bob Pridgen's leave of absence. Ms. Mullink has just submitted her dissertation at Wayne State University in Detroit, where her husband, a native of India, also is completing work on a doctorate.

In early September, PROFESSORS DAVID CARR and RON SARNAR attended the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in Washington. In the first week of August, PROFESSOR and MRS. ROBERT MEIJER traveled to Chicago where Dr. Meijer attended a faculty institute on "The Technology of Nuclear Power" at the Argonne National Laboratory. Participation in these institutes is highly competitive and national in scope.

REPORT ON THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE PROGRAM AT SUC UTICA/ROME

Criminal Justice education at Upper Division College is alive and well and growing, thanks to the efforts and endorsement of many of you in the Faculty. Our current enrollment includes 166 full-time students, half of whom are newly enrolled juniors.

The College has a very active and aggressive Placement Office. They report that three of every four graduates through last August are gainfully employed full-time, seven percent part-time, and two percent full-time graduate students. Placement in the police positions has included such diverse locations as Dallas (Texas), Gillette (Wyoming), Utica, Herkimer and Baldwinsville (New York), and Brevard County (Florida). In corrections they hold positions with the federal system, in probation and parole, and with the Division for Youth both in this state and others (Pennsylvania, Florida). Some graduates have joined the U.S. Army as officers and others the Border Patrol and U.S. Customs Service.

Several hold SUNY Campus Security posts and one graduate is in charge of security and safety at an upstate shopping mall.

J. E. Wilson, Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice (A.A.S., B.S., M.P.A.-John Jay College of Criminal Justice). Wilson has taught 29 years with the New York City Police Department where he started as a patrolman and ultimately attained the rank of Inspector of Officer Services. He served as Commanding Officer of the Inspections Division. He has served as administrator, inspector, and investigator for the 31st Congressional District. Wilson's teaching assignment will concentrate on the Police Service Option where his street experience and understanding in operations and management will be particularly effective. He will also serve as the Director of our Center for Rural and Urban Crime Studies.

R. BRUCE McBRIDE, Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice (B.A., M.A.-State University College at Oswego, NY; graduate study Syracuse University). Professor McBride came to us from the police department of Baldwinsville, NY. Prior to that, he was a security officer at the Oswego campus of SUNY. McBride has taught at Central New York Police Academy, State University College at Oswego and Sage College and part-time at this College. His teaching responsibilities will include contemporary criminal justice practice, organized crime, political corruption, and other police-related courses. He will also be coordinating our student internship program.

DANIEL LOCKWOOD, Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice (B.A., City College of New York; M.A., Stanford University, Ph.D., School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York at Albany). Professor Lockwood is our corrections specialist. He joins us after successful completion of his doctorate at the School of Criminal Justice in Albany. His fellowships included one from LEAA, one from the Ford Foundation, and another at Stanford University where he served as a teaching assistant.

Professor Lockwood is a bilingual and taught in the adult education program at the federal prison in Lewisburg. He has also served as an educational therapist in a drug program at Albert Einstein College in the Bronx.

NEWS FROM VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The first class of 19 full-time Baccalaureate Degree majors graduates Spring 1977. The department faculty are proud of those students who came to Utica/Rome from the community and agricultural and technical colleges throughout the state representing thirteen specialized career areas in occupational education. We have heard from several of the graduates who have attained positions in occupational education and industry to find that they are busy at work and enjoying the challenges of their new positions.

During the past year forty of our part-time majors have attained positions in occupational education and industry to find that they are busy at work and enjoying the challenges of their new positions.

The Master's Degree Program in Vocational-Technical Education is beginning its second year in operation at Utica/Rome and in providing students with programming alternatives to meet individual needs. For our students who commute a distance, graduate coursework is available Friday nights and Saturday mornings, as well as weeknights each semester. Investigation is under way to study about scheduling alternatives to better serve graduate student needs for Summer 1978. Look for more information to come.

As the school year progresses, you will see more and more of the department faculty out in the schools working with our vocational teachers in the areas of: instructional development with Project ISEE; serving special needs of learners with joint workshops for special education and occupational education teachers; professional staff development needs analysis at the post-secondary level to provide meaningful in-service staff development programs; career awareness seminars for elementary and secondary teachers to acquaint them with the world of work; developing our performance-based teacher education programs; pilot testing modular instructional packages in the St. Lawrence County area; and student teacher placement with participating schools throughout the state.

JUDITH KREMP, Associate Professor, rejoined the faculty on October 24 upon completing her leave of absence to participate in a developing nations educational project in Iran. We welcome Professor Kremp back and look forward to hearing about her professional experiences abroad.

There is no cost to the College for the documents. In return for the depository status, the library has agreed to provide organization and make the resources available to the entire population living in the 31st Congressional District. Approximately 500 different series are already being received and two persons have been assigned the responsibility of keeping the College and the general public informed. A list of newsletters can be found on the regular book shelves in the library. All alumni may use the new capability and are free to inquire further.
ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
STATE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE AT UTICA/ROME

The Alumni Newsletter endeavors to bring you reports on developments regarding campus changes, faculty turnover, curriculum and division news, feature alumni articles, student/alumni activities and nostalgic recollections of the good old days here at the College.

The Alumni Newsletter also invites reports, news, chatter and the like from all our alumni. Please contribute any information about your roamings, hazards and ventures. Send your correspondence to Ron Przestrzelski, c/o Alumni Relations Office at the College. We will do our best to publish your news in this section of the Winter issue.
