"In A Chimney Corner."
(On A Winter's Night.)

Words by ANDREW B. STERLING.

Music by HARRY VON TILZER.

Moderato.

When you hear the wintry breezes
When she softly sighs "It's growing till ready

blowing,
And the frost is on the window
colder,
Hear the hail beat on the window still,

There is just one place in all this pane,"
That's the time to take her in your

Copyright 1906 by Harry Von Tilzer Music Pub. Co. 37 W. 28th St. N.Y.

English Copyright Secured.

All Rights Reserved.
wide, wide world for Jack and Jill,
arms, and hug her once again.

That's a fireplace with embers glowing,
Steal a kiss or two then while you hold her.

And an armchair placed where none can see,
There beneath the dear old Christmas tree,

When the north wind blows.
Oh, what joy sublime,

When it hails and snows,
Chimney corner time.

That's the only place to be.
"That's the time for you and me."

In A Chimney Corner, 4
CHORUS.

Sitting in a chimney corner,

On a frosty winter's night,

With the little girl who loves you

Poco rall.

Cuddled up so snug and tight, what bliss and kissing when she

Poco rall.
throws her chub- by arms a-round you,

all the world is ro-sy bright, when you are sitting in a chim-ne y cor- ner on a winter's night.

"When The Flowers Bloom in Spring-time."

"Molly Dear."

Words by ANDREW B. STERLING.

Music by HARRY VON TILZER.

CHORUS.

When the flowers bloom in spring time, Molly

bye and bye, We'll go roaming in the gloaming, 'neath a summer sky, Down in

Copyright 1906 by Harry Von Tilzer Music Pub. Co. 37 W. 28th St. N.Y.

English Copyright Secured