

Dear Graduates:

On this special day, I am pleased to offer congratulations as you are deservedly recognized for your achievements as our newest alumni of The College at Brockport, State University of New York. While I am exceedingly proud to celebrate your success, it is you—along with your family and friends—who should take the greatest pride in the countless hours of study and engagement in the life of our academic community that you have invested in your degree.

As you know, our mission statement asserts that your success is the College's highest priority. Throughout your academic journey at Brockport, our dedicated faculty and staff have worked diligently with you each semester to help achieve your goals. Please do take a moment to thank these caring mentors as well as your family. They will appreciate it!

Much as is the case with our Commencement speaker today, alumna Dr. Jane Clark '68, your relationship with The College at Brockport does not come to a close today. Each of you is now an ambassador for the College in our global world. As alumni, you will have many opportunities to remain involved in the life of your Alma Mater—through reunions, Homecoming Weekend, regional meetings and the host of activities that take place on our campus every week. We also encourage you to donate the gift of your time as well as your financial support to the College to ensure that the exceptional education you have received will be available for the next generation.

In turn, I trust we have delivered to you what we are proud to call “The Brockport Promise”: To reveal to each student, each day, your capacity for intellectual, physical and creative accomplishment.

Again, let me extend my personal best wishes for a lifetime of continued success.

Best wishes,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "John R. Halstead". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, stylized initial 'J'.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER AND HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

---

DR. JANE E. CLARK '68

Jane E. Clark, PhD, is dean of the University of Maryland, College Park's School of Public Health and a professor of kinesiology. She graduated from The College at Brockport in 1968 with a bachelor's degree in health and physical education.

Her research has focused on the development of motor skills in young children, with an emphasis on those with movement difficulties. Her drive to help children develop the competence and confidence necessary to be physically active throughout their lives is inspirational, particularly to us at Brockport—where we feature a premier adapted physical education program. Dr. Clark has edited seven books, written 25 book chapters, published more than 70 peer-reviewed papers, and has presented professional papers at conferences around the world. She is the founding editor of Kinesiology Review and sits on the editorial board of multiple journals.

Dr. Clark is an active scholar, having secured nearly $3 million in grants from organizations that include the National Science Foundation and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). She has also served as a reviewer of grant proposals for the National Institutes of Health and the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Clark has served as a consultant for a variety of different organizations and corporations, including Kellogg's, Gerber Foods and the Dannon Institute. She has taken on a leadership role in a number of her professional organizations, including the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance and the National Association for Sport and Physical Education.

CANDIDATES FOR BACHELOR'S DEGREES

Because the names of the graduates and honors recipients presented in this program must be compiled in advance of Commencement, the information is not official and is subject to revision as may be mandated by satisfaction of the degree requirements and of academic grades.

GRADUATION WITH HONORS

Students in medieval universities were rewarded for high levels of academic accomplishment by special Latin phrases applied to their degrees. These Latin phrases are still used as honors for the baccalaureate degrees of modern college graduates. To be eligible for these honors, students must have achieved the minimum cumulative academic average required as of January 2013.

Brockport students wear the following special tassels on their caps to denote the “Latin Honors” they have earned:

- *** Summa Cum Laude, “with the greatest praise,” is awarded for cumulative academic averages in the range of 3.80–4.00 and is denoted by a gold tassel.
- ** Magna Cum Laude, “with great praise,” is awarded for cumulative academic averages in the range of 3.60–3.79 and is denoted by a green and gold tassel.
- * Cum Laude, “with praise,” is awarded for cumulative academic averages in the range of 3.40–3.59 and is denoted by a green and black tassel.

PROMETHEUS MEDAL

Students who have completed the Honors Program at The College at Brockport receive the bronze Prometheus medal, designed by Robert Marx, emeritus professor of art. According to Greek mythology, Prometheus symbolizes the characteristics of intelligence and inventiveness. The medal, an image of Prometheus cast in bronze, is awarded to students upon the completion of their Honors thesis. Each year, an average of 300 students are enrolled in the Honors Program, representing a wide variety of academic majors. Honors Program students are among the most academically superior students at the College.

ACADEMIC REGALIA AND RITUAL

GOWN

The long, black gown worn by faculty and staff at Commencement is symbolic of the earliest universities in Europe and their connection with the church. Although most universities and colleges are no longer closely associated with organized religion, the gown remains a symbol of formality.

Generally, the more elaborate the gown, the higher the degree. The bachelor's gown is the most simple, with no hood and long sleeves. The master's gown features a small hood and longer sleeves, sometimes with slits in the sides for the hands. The doctoral robe is the most ornate, with velvet panels down the front and around the upper back, long bell-shaped sleeves, and a larger hood worn on the back.

HOOD

The trim color of the hood indicates the nature of the degree. Most frequently seen on the College faculty and staff is the blue-trimmed hood of the doctorate of philosophy. Also present are white (arts), light blue (education), lemon (library and information science), orange (nursing), teal (public administration), gold (science) and citron (social work). The inside of the hood often shows the colors of the wearer's university, with one or more brightly colored chevrons against a dark background. The colors blue and gold can be found on the inside of hoods worn by State University of New York graduates.

CAP

The origin of the square mortarboard is unclear. One authority claims that originally the headpieces were round and soft, but later were stiffened at the four corners to prevent them from falling into the face. Versions of the original "pancake" hat, a kind of oversized beret, are worn by holders of doctorates from English universities and the University of Chicago. Most American doctorates favor the mortarboard with a gold tassel sewn firmly in place.

KENTE

The kente is an Asante ceremonial hand-woven cloth made in various colors, sizes and designs. Although its roots can be traced to 11th-century West African weaving traditions, the modern kente has achieved international recognition and evolved into a symbol of Pan-African camaraderie. The kente has a symbolic significance: every cloth pattern and motif has a name and a meaning. Originally, it was reserved for royalty and limited to special social and sacred functions. Today, it is worn during very important social and religious occasions, including commencement ceremonies.

MACE

The mace symbolizes the authority of the President of the College and is carried by the marshal who leads the academic processions. The College at Brockport mace was created in 1982 by renowned artist and former Brockport faculty member Albert Paley. It is made of steel, bronze and delrin (a synthetic metal) and weighs approximately 25 pounds.

MEDALLIONS

The College medallion, worn on a chain by the President, was also created by Albert Paley. It is made primarily of bronze with a copper accent and bears an impression of the College seal.

The gold medallion is worn by Chancellor's Award recipients. Since the inception of the award in 1973, 174 of our faculty and staff members have received the Chancellor's Award.

TASSELS

Some of our most accomplished undergraduates wear a gold or multi-colored tassel in recognition of their outstanding achievement. The gold tassel is worn by students who are graduating Summa Cum Laude, our highest award. The green and gold tassel is worn by students graduating Magna Cum Laude, and the green and black tassel is worn by students graduating Cum Laude.

DISTINGUISHED FACULTY

Twenty-seven members of our faculty have been awarded the title of Distinguished University Professor (the highest award attainable), Distinguished Teaching Professor and Distinguished Service Professor. Our faculty rank among the top in New York and nationwide.

FULBRIGHT AWARDS

Seventeen members of our faculty have been awarded the Fulbright Award. The Fulbright Program, the US government's flagship program in international educational exchange, provides grants to US citizens and nationals of other countries for a variety of educational activities. Brockport faculty have lectured and researched in such places as Kenya, Russia, Bangladesh, China, Denmark, Morocco, Germany and Romania.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

BROCKPORT COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE, 1835–1866

“Without the Erie Canal, there would be no college in Brockport.”

~State University of New York College at Brockport, Gigliotti, Leslie and O’Brien

The completion of the Erie Canal in 1825 helped to create a thriving center for agriculture and commerce in what would become the Village of Brockport. Incorporated in 1829 and named for Heil Brockway, the largest landowner in the area, the flourishing canal port town focused its attention on building churches, good roads and schools. With a donation of cash and land from Brockway, the village leaders partnered with the New York Baptists to build the first institution of higher education west of Colgate University. The first “College at Brockport” welcomed students in 1835.

Years of hardship followed, brought on by economic downturns and a devastating fire that caused the institution to almost close its doors for good. However, determined villagers rallied around the school, and classes resumed in 1841. As an academy, the Brockport Collegiate Institute offered teacher training, elementary classes for your children, and academic and professional training for older students. In addition to the wide age range of students, the academy also accepted women and minorities when many other colleges were largely closed to them. In a very real sense the Brockport Collegiate Institute was the “people’s college of its time.”

BROCKPORT STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, 1866–1942

In 1866, largely through the efforts of Malcolm MacVicar, principal and a leader in education circles, the school became one of the four new state “normal” schools established in New York.

Normal schools were part of a revolution in education taking place in 19th century America, in which the need for teachers to receive training was becoming more and more evident. Thus teacher training became a major focus of the school.

Charles McLean was the principal for the first several decades of the school and helped to establish one of the major elements of the Normal School’s culture, that of the Greek Letter Societies, which flourished at the school from 1869 to 1940.

BROCKPORT STATE TO SUNY BROCKPORT, 1942–2004

The last Normal School class graduated in 1942 after which the school officially became a college, meaning it could grant bachelor’s degrees. The enhancement of status was due in good part to the efforts of President Ernest Hartwell, who, like many other Brockport figures, played a leading role in the education movements of the time. The Brockport State Teachers College was automatically included in the new SUNY system established in 1948.

The years after World War II were a time of tremendous growth for higher education, as thousands of veterans went to college on the G.I. Bill. Brockport began a period of expansion unprecedented in the school's history. When Donald Tower became president of the school in 1944, the entire campus was what we now call Hartwell Hall. The sole purpose of the school was to train elementary school teachers. By 1964, there were several thousand students and several hundred faculty and staff. The campus had expanded greatly, adding residence halls and a college union. As the College grew, it evolved into a liberal arts college with a number of master's degree programs. The first graduate degree was awarded in January 1950.

In the early years of President Albert Brown (1965–1981), the school's growth built to a height of activity with the addition of high-rise residence halls, a library and other building which make the campus what it is today. The school continued to evolve in the last years of the 20th century under the leadership of President John Van De Wetering (1981–1997), who launched the MetroCenter, Brockport's classroom complex in downtown Rochester.

From 1997 to 2004, under the leadership of Paul Yu, PhD, Brockport achieved new levels of excellence, becoming recognized throughout New York and within the SUNY system as an innovative and dynamic institution.

THE COLLEGE AT BROCKPORT, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK, 2005–PRESENT

In August 2005, John R. Halstead, PhD, became Brockport's sixth president. Beginning early in his tenure, he developed relationships with numerous government, corporate and community leaders to increase Brockport's visibility in the region, and formed partnerships to further promote student success. President Halstead has overseen exciting new construction projects, including the townhome complex for upperclassmen; the newly opened, state-of-the-art Special Events Recreation Center (SERC); and the Liberal Arts Building, currently under construction and slated to open in fall 2014.

In addition, President Halstead has championed a major brand development initiative on behalf of the College. The College's promise—to reveal to each student, each day, his or her capacity for intellectual, physical and creative accomplishment—truly speaks to the unwavering commitment of faculty and staff to student success and to the promise of a multi-dimensional education—one that engages and develops the whole person. The change in the expression of the College's name to The College at Brockport, State University of New York, is intended to bring focus to the College in the context of the State University of New York—one of the largest and most respected educational systems in the world.

Under the visionary leadership of President Halstead, the College will continue to expand its programs with leading-edge technology, improve and expand its infrastructure, champion the success of students, faculty and staff, and continue to be a leader in higher education for the region

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Dear Class of 2013:

As your journey at The College at Brockport comes to a close, the Alumni Association would like to wish you the very best in all your endeavors. We are certain that your future accomplishments will continue to build upon the impressive foundation that you have established while a student at Brockport. We take pride in the success of all of our graduates, reflecting the quality education that you received while you were here.

It may seem like time to say goodbye to the friends, faculty and staff with whom you have established lasting relationships, but we encourage you to continue those connections. The majority of your time as part of the Brockport family comes after you graduate. The Alumni Association's mission is to keep those relationships ongoing and to make sure you stay connected with Brockport for years to come. Through our events, communications, career networking and volunteer roles, you will have multiple opportunities to stay engaged with your Alma Mater.

Stay connected as you continue to pursue something greater!

Best wishes for continued success,

Warren R. Kozireski '82/'95
President
Brockport Alumni Association

BROCKPORT ALUMNI ASSOCIATION GIFT

The Brockport Alumni Association congratulates the Class of 2013 on all of their accomplishments.

As a special gift, the Association will provide each graduate with their very own business card holder embossed with the College logo. In the fall, this gift will be mailed to each graduate, welcoming them to the Brockport Alumni Association.
