state's evolving program to educate youth within the range of their abilities, aptitudes, and interests. It provides boys and girls of this area with an opportunity to pursue post high school education without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, or economic status. On the basis of a study made, about 7,200 high school graduates annually of the Buffalo area have not continued their education. For these, it gives a broader opportunity than ever provided before.

"But this Institute does more than give technical training to prepare students to earn a living. It offers general education as well. Thus adequate preparation for earning, for living with oneself, and for living with others, form the cornerstones of the kind of education envisioned in the overall program—to this end we dedicate the Institute at Buffalo."

Dedication exercises of the New York State Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences were held in the school auditorium on Thursday, January 27, at 1:30 P.M.

Technical Institute Students All Enjoy Music, Dancing
Form Club To Help
Students like to dance. And, who doesn't? Young and old alike, spend most of their free time listening to the radio and what do they listen to? Music! Music! The young feel like "jumpin' " and those who are on the rite side of adolescence wish they were young again.

To satisfy these mellow and tender feelings of the "hip-cats" and the "long-hair" lovers the N. S. A. gives them the opportunity of getting together and "setting the joint a-rockin'."

The sweet dulcet tones, soft lights and swirling gowns—all cocktails together into one splendid evening, more than one relaxed the "supersaturated with knowledge" minds. The mere anticipation of the gala evening brings joy to the downhearted and the book hungry.

The students of the B. T. I., the youngest member of the N. S. A., attended two of such affairs, and the resulting presentation of this institute was simply amazing. Man, what grace, what poise, what forms could be seen?

At the first Annual N. S. A. Dance, the gliding slippers and fumbling feet worked up an appetite for the Thanksgiving Fete. And, frozen feet were warmed at the Christmas Dance. An added attraction at this Christmas festivity was a B. T. I. Barbershop Quartet, whose mellow and memorable songs brought back memories of the "good old days," when the skirts were about the same length they are today.

A rather limited affair in which only faces of the buddy sitting next to you during the classes could be seen, towering above the bright springs' colors (Ye-Gads) was the First Annual Spring Dance sponsored by the B. T. I. News.

Recently, a Dancing Club was added to the extra-curricular activities to help those who have two left feet. Thus far, wonderful progress has been made and many mean swinging hips (U-la-la) coordinate with the music of a square dance.
