FACULTY FACTS AND STAFF STUFF

for week of April 28-May 4

President Tyrrell leaves Thursday for Dover, Del., as a consultant for the Middle States Association to Delaware Technical and Community College. He will be back at his desk on Monday.

Dean Durst served on an ECPD accreditation committee at Purdue University on April 21 and 22.

Dean Dougherty will be part of a Middle States Association case study team at Corning Community College April 27-30.

Dr. Frank Fiaschetti lectured Sunday at the Fountains to the Tri-County Society of Dental Assistants on oral diseases.

Steve Korducavich spent April 16 through 20 in Miami Beach attending a conference on college composition and communication. His report includes the comment "Temperature low 80's, wind 8 mph, occasional cloud cover." His face testifies to the validity of the comment.

Henri Lewin, who holds memberships in the International Association of Studies of French, College de France, Paris and Societe des Professeurs Francais in America, has been welcomed into the International Arthur Schnitzler Research Association whose president is Prof. Robert Weiss of SUNY at Binghamton.

Dorothy Turner, chairman of the Education Committee of the Triple Cities Chapter of the Administrative Management Society, and Jim Kalbaugh will co-host a meeting of the committee along with business department chairmen and counselors from local high schools. This meeting will be in the Conference Room of the Administration Building on Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. A slide-tape presentation will be given -- "A Story with a Happy Ending -- Your Business Career."

Last Friday and Saturday Arlene Bangilsdorf, Virginia Cropsey, Marie Ford, Dorothy Saeger and Evelyn Katusak attended the annual convention of the Business Teachers Association of New York State in Albany. Evelyn chaired a session on "Post-Secondary Education for Business."

Bob Cann attended a meeting of the New York State Junior College Marketing Association in Middletown on Friday through Sunday. Bob also attended the New York State Junior College Association Conference in New York City recently along with Harvey Roehl, George Ferrari, Mary Schum and Joan Foley.

Ralph Newton was re-elected treasurer for the Triple Cities Chapter of the Association for Systems Management.

Lou Lange reports that he is writing a review for Prentice-Hall about a physics text for liberal arts students.

Joe Gay and James Bridger attended a Western New York Conference on Cellular, Molecular, Organismic and Population Biology in the Core Curriculum at SUNY at Brockport last week.

Marvin Behr will be a discussion leader at one of the sessions of the SUNY Public Relations Council annual spring conference at the SUNY Conference Center in Oyster Bay, L.I. The conference runs from Wednesday through Friday.

Dave Fergus has been a busy man lately. He attended the spring meeting two weeks ago of the American Chemical Society in Minneapolis, then he and Floyd West were the only faculty members who went with the choir to the fifth annual music festival at Alfred Tech the weekend before last, and he attended a meeting in Albany the week before of the University of the Air Advisory Committee of State University. He is one of four representatives of two-year colleges on the nine-man committee, which is new although the University of the Air is not.

Jim Baker advises that a collection of ancient Greek and Roman coins is on display in the library through the courtesy of SUNY at Binghamton.

Speeches and Speakers Bureau --

Steve Steele will speak to the Maine Kiwanis Club tonight (Monday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Broome County Airport. His topic is "Insight into India."

Frank Mrykalo and Andy Ryan spoke at the Police School being held on campus by the Broome County Sheriff's Department. Their general topic was "Human Relations: Public and Private," and Andy developed the law aspects and Frank the psychological ones.

Toni Gregg advises that Ina Knudsen, crack offset duplicator, is also an accomplished horsewoman. If anyone is interested, Ina is available for giving lessons.

Marge Savory is in room 347 S. Tower at Wilson Hospital with a back difficulty.

BEHR FACTS

There is room for a few more people on a chartered bus heading for New York City next Wednesday (May 7) for a one-day trip. Primary purpose of the journey is to see the play "Great White Hope," but we are advised that there will be some time for shopping or whatever else, in case anyone is free or has an interested wife, husband or friend.

The excursion is sponsored by the Brandeis University local women's group, costs $14.25, which includes the price of the show but no meals, and is scheduled to leave the Vestal Plaza at 8 a.m. and return there at about 12 midnight. Arlene Bangilsdorf has any further information, and she can be reached on ext. 277 to reserve a spot.

Change and vacillation are not new to college campuses, but some new track records may have been set recently. And we doubt if this has anything to do with student unrest.

Joe Hall, No. 2 assistant to Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp, accepted the position as head coach at the University of St. Louis. Seven days and one press conference later, Hall resigned his new job and returned to Kentucky with the same duties.

This was thought to be the shortest coaching tenure ever, even in a field known for turnover. But the record lasted an incredibly short time. Even though records are made to be broken, as the cliché goes, this was ridiculous. Less than a week later there was a new record holder.

Don Haskins resigned his post as head basketball coach at the University of Texas at El Paso to become the mentor at the University of Detroit, where Spencer Heywood has two more years to play. Haskins had guided the Texas school to a national championship a few years ago when it was named Texas Western. Now after only two days in the new post at Detroit, he announced that he had made a mistake and resigned to return to UTEP. Who's next!

CONTRIBUTION CORNER --

From Evelyn Katusak:

Children Learn What They Live

If a child lives with criticism, he learns to condemn
If a child lives with hostility, he learns to fight
If a child lives with ridicule, he learns to be shy
If a child lives with shame, he learns to feel guilty
If a child lives with tolerance, he learns to be patient
If a child lives with encouragement, he learns confidence
If a child lives with praise, he learns to appreciate
If a child lives with security, he learns to have faith
If a child lives with acceptance, he learns to find love
